TO THE SPIRIT OF BOSTON COLLEGE MEN OF THE HALLOWED PAST, OF THE FATEFUL PRESENT, AND THE GLORIOUS FUTURE.

THE SPIRIT of Boston College is loyalty to ideals, adherence to principle, comradeship with fellow-alumni, devotion to College, Church and Nation. That spirit teaches that we must have the Faith of Our Fathers. Boston College men of the past possess a noble tradition. Our College was born of the agonies of saintly Father Bapst—insulted, abused, tortured. Since the Civil War it has ever prospered. Old graduates have hallowed memories of days on James Street, when Jesuit pioneers fought to bring Catholic education to a city steeped in Puritanism. They recall the rallying of their fellows to the colors in '98. Later they reminisced in awe as Father Gasson stood above the twin lakes and envisioned the College that we know today.

Boston College men remember the tramp of young soldiers in 1918, championship athletic teams, the vista of sermons in stone. The chimes recall golden days of youth and bring to them joy in sharing with their sons these same scenes.

Boston College men of this generation, too, recall the tramp of soldiers, warriors who died that the ideals of Boston College might live on forever. This generation carries on the traditions of the giants of old—Churchmen, Educators, Physicians, Barristers, Business Leaders. The best of Catholic tradition is on the Heights, and these young men have not failed to hold high their heritage of faithful devotion.

They are inspired by the followers of Loyola . . . they have loyalty to ideals, adherence to principle, and kinship with fellow-alumni. They witness what older Boston College pictured only in dreams—a university of epic proportions beneath spires that point to heaven. They are fulfilling the hopes of Bapst and Gasson. Those heavenward spires guarantee that Boston College men will carry high the ideals of the past. They have inspiration and the spirit of sacrifice that has been our gift and our challenge. Nor will they fail us, for the spirit of Boston College is built on the word of God, and that is eternal.

ALMA MATER

Alma Mater, bring to me
What Christ brought to the midnight sea.

O hush the tempest that you find
Blowing through my fevered mind.

Bring me silence, bring me peace,
And never let this silence cease.

Calm my restless surge for sin
With wisdom, love, and discipline.

Wisdom, so that I may see
Each subtle false philosophy.

Love I need to recognize
The One who begs in a beggar's eyes.

Discipline, so I may kill
Hypocrisies that cloud my will.

Give me all these things I need
In the symmetry of a seed.

Seize my fluctuating youth
And fasten it to constant truth.

Alma Mater, bring to me
What Christ brought to the midnight sea.

Hail! Alma Mater!

HAIL ALMA MATER—stately queen, determined guardian, loving mother,—seated as you are high up on the Heights watching carefully our eager ascent and our thoughtful departure.

The learning, loving, laughing years atop your windswept bluffs are gone. Our happiest days are over. For there are others; young, vigorous, reckless—today's boys and tomorrow's men—to be formed and fashioned to principle, made ready and able as we too have been to assume their rightful role as good men, Christian men, men imbued with your spirit—ALMA MATER.

Be with us once again—come and guide us now as you did in the past through your queenly domain—come along Linden Lane and help us recall:

Your wisdom—more lasting than your towers of stone

Your truth—as eternal as the Word on which it was founded.

Your love—as true as the toil which is its test.

Be with us now as we travel back over memory's happy road. Open your arms to us now as in the past. HAIL ALMA MATER through this book your sons are coming home.

Thy praise we sing

FROM BRAVES Field where thousands of voices hurled your praises upwards to the sky and out over the peaceful Charles—to Alumni Field the scene of the double-play combination and the busted tape at the finish line—From the deafening roar at the final swish of a winning basket—to the choking cheers at the home of the Kelleymen—From the final applause for the dramatist and the climactic perorations of the Fultonians to the awesome diminuendo at a glee club concert. The men of '52 have sung your praises—ALMA MATER.

Return with us now. Make vivid, real and personal those happy memories. Teach us by recall—that the energies of these activities contained the seeds of future greatness—that our actions now as then are the clarions of your praise.

B. C. to Drop Football After 1952 Season

By DAVE EGAN

All good—and maybe all bad—things sooner or later must end, and the sound of the death rattle now may be heart over the Gothic Towers of Boston College.

My information is that Boston College will abolish football at the end of the 1952 season, and I slip you the 33 news from authoritative sources. It will be denied. I presume; these things always are, even if they are as true as the Book of Job. It will be said that the next coach at Boston College—and I hope that the next coach will be Mike Holovak—will be signed to a contract that will extend through 1953, and that it stands to reason, therefore, that the school will not abolish the sport in 1952.

We're all supposed to be boobs and simpletons, I guess. We're all supposed to forget the superb demonstrations so recently given by so many universities of the manner in which a college can cancel all its football obli... tions at the drop of a hat. Trouble is that Boston Colleg...

Eagle cheerleaders "hang one on" the night before the Holy Cross game.

IT HAS BEEN the long standing practice of Sub Turri sports editors to observe strict chronology in their recollection of the year's football. Custom has dictated that a season, no matter how dismal, must be retold game by game, as each was played, with the chips, cleats, teeth, coaches and scores falling where they may. This year we disrupt that convention and play back first what was always last: the memories and events of the Holy Cross game. For the 1951 annual reunion of the Chestnut Hill and Pakachoagian adversaries at Braves Field December 1st shattered every previous convention and prediction. This reversal is a monument to that fact.

Boston College's 19-14 upset triumph over Holy Cross was the phenomenon of the college year. It will probably feature the thoughts of the class of 1952 more than any other single event for years to come; the unpleasantness of by-gone losses will dissipate, but this memory shall prevail.

Boston College-19 Holy Cross-14

Fledgling coach Mike Holovak fielded a 20-point underdog team that was given as much chance for victory as there is likelihood that Viacheslav Molotov is an undercover member of the Third Order of St. Francis. The Crusaders came down to Gaffney Street with an 8 and 1 record and they were going to show the Orange Bowl selectors they had made a fat mistake when they eliminated H.C. from consideration. Eddie Anderson would lower the whole boom, the Worcester sportswriters chirped. Averaging nearly 40 points per game against all previous opponents, the purple thermometer was to be held to the flame and B.C. was going to go for the collar.

It was a lamentable commentary on the astuteness of Worcester sportswriters. The instrument of the win, of course, was the story-book pass completion between Freshman quarterback Jim Kane and halfback Tom Joe Sullivan with 90 seconds to play. But that is not the whole story book.

Holy Cross took a 7-0 lead in the first three minutes of the game, when the Eagles—in accordance with an established habit—gave the ball away deep in their own territory. Touted quarter-

Incredible! Joe Johnson smashes over from the one for the winning touchdown in the last few seconds of play. John McCauley (42) and Jim Kane (20) applaud.

What's your rush, Danny? Half-back Dan Brosnahan takes off on a long run in the third period, pursued by Jim Buonopane (60) and Chick Murphy (35) of Holy Cross. Running interference is Eagle guard Ed Wall.

back Charlie Maloy bounced across on two quarterback sneaks. Jack Feltch made a successful conversion and the faithful settled back for much of the aforesaid lowering of large booms.

But the only thing Holy Cross lowered between its first touchdown and the last three minutes of play was its own reputation. Boston College came right back, to trail 7-6. at the 6-minute mark. Defensive back Bob Cote intercepted a Maloy fling and was stopped on the H.C. 24. Relentless running by big John McCauley put the ball over in a succession of plays. Zotti's extra-point attempt was off the mark.

In the second period, freshman defensive end Bob Flannagan retrieved a Crusader fumble on the B.C. 8-yard line. Then the Eagles, on critical tries by Kane, McCauley and Joe Johnson, hacked their way 92-yards—most of it through the heart of the Holy Cross line. From the 24, Kane unloaded a pass in the direction of Capt. Mike Roarke, right end. Roarke zipped an angle across the secondary, outran the defenders, then made a diving rush to grab Kane's suspended fling over in the left corner of the end zone. The successful effort Mike made to catch that pass was outshone in spectacle only by Kane's game-winning completion later on.

The Eagles moved 65 yards at the start of the second half and almost broke halfback Danny Brosnahan away for a 90-yard run on first scrimmage play. Late in third period, B.C. defensive back Bob Baggett prevented Crusader Chick Murphy from returning a kick the full distance.

In the final quarter, the Crusaders finally assembled enough efficiency to get an 89-yard march going. Capt. Mel Massuco and Jersey's Bob Doyle alternated on a hard ground grind. Doyle was awarded a much-disputed first down on the Eagle 10 and his team was hit with a staggering 15-yard penalty right after that. But Maloy still managed to reach Mike Mikutowicz with a pass over right center and two plays later Massuco whirled inside his left tackle and up a well-paved path for what B.C. and H.C. fanatics alike suspected was the deciding touchdown. Holy Cross: 14, B.C.: 12.

There is a catalogue of cliches which were brought in to describe the events of the following few minutes—Kane Mutiny, Kane was able, Sugar Kane, raised Kane—but they served their purpose well. Beneath the play of names and personal tributes to Jimmy stood a greater and more permanent enthusiasm for the type of victory he brought about. His 56-yard conspiracy with fellow-freshman Tommy Joe Sullivan and Joe Johnson's subsequent third-down touchdown from the one yard line with 10-seconds to go was a monument to the brand of football which B.C. represents. Boston College had refused to compromise, through defeat after defeat, its amateur definition of the game. Now, the Kane-to-Sullivan workings were a triumph for amateurism at its best. Two boys straight from high school—untouched by lucrative offers and scholastic pamperings—had achieved what the semi-professionals may never achieve: a completely honest victory.

VILLANOVA 13—B.C. 20

Until the Holy Cross upset, the victory over Villanova on November 17th was the big thing. The Wildcats, too, had only one loss (to Kentucky) prior to engaging the Eagles. Rated No. 3 team in the East, they had entertained serious Bowl intentions.

The key touchdown for B.C. was Joe Johnson's 56-yard run for a 14-7 lead in the third period. The Eagles deadlocked the score 7-7 in the second quarter by whipping down the field for 82 yards on some razor crossbucks by Brosnahan and scoring on an opportunistic 18-yard run by senior quarterback Bob Richards.

A Kane to Roarke pass sealed the issue halfway down the final quarter. From the Villanova 21, the Weymouth wizard made two sophisticated fakes while waiting for Capt. Mike to get by a defensive halfback. Then he let go and Roarke took it over his left shoulder going into end zone.

It was the first major victory in the Holovak regime, and perhaps the most consoling. It demonstrated that Holovak had done a lot with a little and that his charges had come a long way since the Wake Forest game. Bouley's line was a hero all by itself, holding the Wildcats to 141 yards on ground. B.C. had 224 yards rushing. As an upset, the game received national attention.

RICHMOND 7—B.C. 21

November 2, 1951. Boston College had not won a game since November 26, 1949 and its name was mud. Just as well, because the weather was wet and receivers on both sides caught more mud-pies than they did footballs. Quagmires somehow make players hard to identify but fullback Joe Ahearn stood out anyway. He bulled his way to yardage like a small motorboat, and though he didn't score, he was most responsible for the win. Irwin, Kane and Mike Mikulics made the actual tallies. The Eagles rushed for 369 yards and 25 first downs—the Spiders for 24 yards and 5 first downs. That Bouley line!

WAKE FOREST 20—B.C. 6

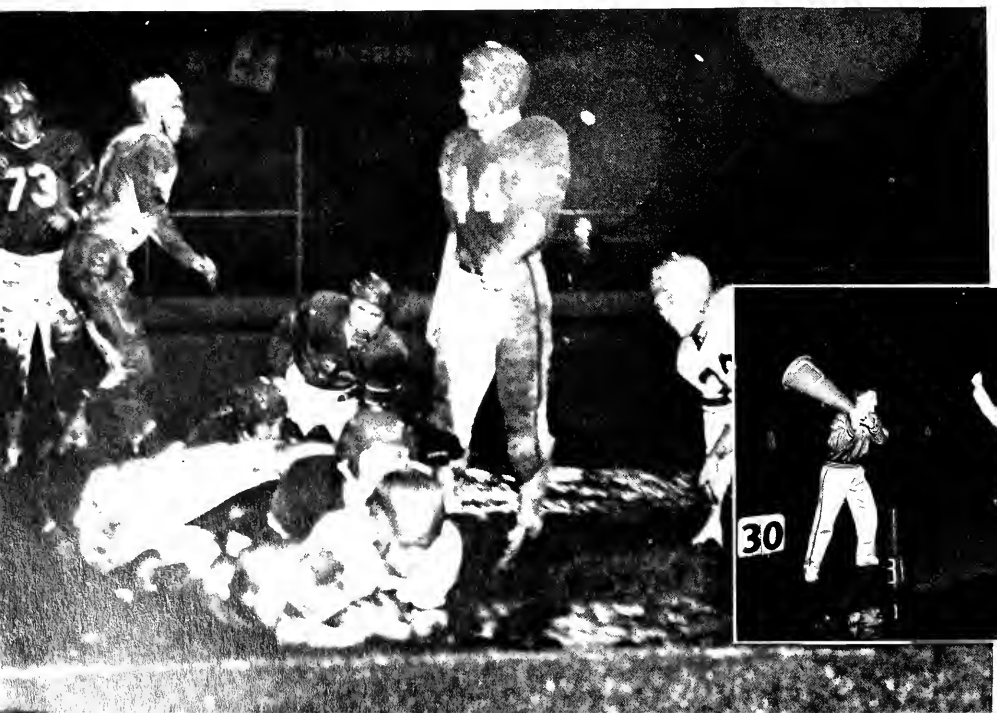
A starting backfield of Jack McKinnon at quarter, Dick Zotti and Joe Johnson at halves and Joe Ahearn at full did its best in the season opener September 21st, but couldn't match the weight and sophistication of Wake Forest. The Eagles stymied the Deacons on the ground. T quarterback Dickie Davis triggered them successfully in the air. After a 55-yard sprint by Eagle halfback Jack Irwin, Capt. Mike Roarke went over on a flip from McKinnon for B.C.'s single tally.

Joe Johnson takes off on his 56-yard run for winning touchdown in the third period against the Wildcats. Villanova's Ralph Cecere (27) misses tackle and Mike Roarke grunts on his knees.

Kane (behind noseguard) is carried off the field after victory over Villanova.

BOSTON 20
COLLEGE 21

Ahearn, thy name is mud! Joe was just as glad in the sloppy game against Richmond, as he swam to a twelve yard gain over the Spiders.



Grant took Richmond—and so did Boston College, Sub!

Hold up thar, cries little linebacker Joe Coffey to Villanova halfback Dick Bedesem.

MISSISSIPPI 34—B.C. 7

Crump Stadium, Memphis, October 5th. Tommy Joe Sullivan returned a kickoff 90 yards and Jim Kane made an impressive debut at quarter, but that's about all the Eagles had to offer in this one. Eleven fumbles by B.C. and a passer named Dick Lear accounted for most of the Rebel touchdowns. The temperature was over 90 and that didn't help things, either.

FORDHAM 35—B.C. 19

Kane's arm, unveiled for the first time to local fans, pitched the Eagles to their three touchdowns under the Braves Field lamps, but the Rams were as willing as the Rebels to capitalize on B.C. bobbles. Fordham q.b. Roger Franz passed well and when he wasn't there his running backs were. Ends Roarke and Pollinger and tiny halfback Zotti were the recipients of Kane's tossing enterprises and scored the Eagle touchdowns.

DETROIT 19—B.C. 13

Unlucky! B.C. dropped its 13th straight on another dismal Friday night, this time to the oft-beaten Titans. Detroit jammed all its scoring into the second period. After Kane was banged up, forgotten senior quarterback Bob Richards went in and almost won the game. He threw one scoring pass and directed the Eagles to their best sustained marches of the contest. He was at the helm during a last-minute surge that might have resulted in a tally were it not for the nasty old clock. Johnson scored the other T.D. earlier.

GEORGIA 35—B.C. 28

Georgia would have been a peach of an upset for B.C.—and that's almost what did happen, on October 27th at Athens. Kane, who was later put out of commission with a broken nose, chucked long ones to Roarke, Ahearn and Brosnahan—all in the second period and all for touchdowns. At one time the Eagles led, 21-14. Richards hit Roarke again for a score with 4 minutes to play, but by then Bulldogs Zeke Bratowski and Harry Babcock had combined to push across the deciding markers in the third quarter. The Eagles complained bitterly that Georgia's third touchdown pass was caught on the first bounce. But what can you do? Fine showing, anyway.

13 VILLANOVA

CLEMSON 21—B.C. 2

Better not even to talk about this one. After a good performance over Georgia and a win over Richmond the week before, the Eagles had all they could do to score a safety in the last 10 seconds. They fumbled away one chance after another. Tailback Billy Hair certainly got in B.C.'s on an otherwise pleasant South Carolina November 10th. It was the 6th loss of the season for B.C. Down in the dumps? Yes, but two days later, Father Maxwell assured the Alumni that B.C. had no intention of giving up football—newspaper speculation notwithstanding. Only the Very Reverend Rector's predictions for success were realized sooner than he expected!

AND . . .

A WORD ABOUT THE COACHES

Mike passes on the word to q.b. Jack McKinnon during Wake Forest game.

A record of three wins and six losses, is not, on face-value, a monumental achievement. Boston College has fared, and will fare, far better statistically than it did in 1951. But when the odds against even a solitary season victory are computed, when all is said and done, it will be seen that more was done than said. Mike was given a job of construction. In his first attempt as a varsity coach, he had to feel his way, experiment with fledglings, and naturally enough, add some of his own mistakes to theirs.

But as the season wore on, Mike grew in grace and wisdom—the team's progress was commensurate with his. Holovak's experience as an All-American and Chicago Bears fullback, as an undefeated coach of Freshmen, stood him in good stead. His victories over Richmond, mighty Villanova and Holy Cross are symptomatic of what to expect next season. As a successor to Denny Myers, Holovak rated, in his first year, at least a B in output, an A-plus in effort and in promise.

Holovak's preparations for the Holy Cross affair attest to his fine sense of psychology. With much lament for the state of his own club and great groans of awe for the strength of Holy Cross, he flattered the Crusaders into an egotism that prevented them from being really "up" for the game, and consequently kept them off guard until it was too late.

Gil Bouley, another ex-Eagle great and Los Angeles Rams tackle, brought the line to a discipline it lacked and needed. "The thing about Gil is that he'll never ask you to do anything he can't do himself—and do better," one lineman remarked. That is a good commentary on Bouley. He doesn't teach blocking and tackling, he shows, he does. Line improvement over 1950: 100%.

Steve Stuka, backfield coach, and Bill Flynn, end coach, fit into the same pattern. Stuka, a onetime q.b. himself, worked with the likes of Jimmy Kane, tutored him, encouraged him—the rest of the story tells itself. Flynn, the only member of the staff not in his first varsity coaching year, produced ends of the Roarke-Pollinger calibre. That is good enough in any man's book, the Sub Turri included. A three-letter athlete who graduated in '39, Bill leaves the staff this year to take over as Alumni Secretary.

A fine board of directors . . . all B.C. grads . . . an even finer bunch of guys.

Coach "Snooks" Kelley's Eagles proved themselves to be the class of the East over the 1951-'52 season as they piled up an impressive 17-3 record, but despite a standout performance they were denied a direct invitation to the N.C.A.A. Championship Tourney at Colorado, and a chance at the national title.

The five-man N.C.A.A. selection committee, voting for the two eastern representatives early in March, decided to hold a play-off among the top four teams, by-passing the Eagles' right to make the trip "with no strings attached" . . . disappointed B.C. had no other choice but to refuse the play-off bid.

Despite the N.C.A.A. snub, the youthful Eagles swept to their most successful season since '49 by beating all their opponents at least once, with a decisive 5-4 win over the best Olympic team in 20 years, a hard-earned 4-3 victory over Laval, the collegiate champions of the Dominion, and beating St. Lawrence and Clarkson, the standouts of the New York area, on successive nights.

With but three seniors on the roster, (Captain Pete Maggio, John Hansberry and George Costa), Kelley combined three eligible freshmen and a like number of sophomores with a flock of experienced juniors to form a smooth clicking attack and tight defense to offset the rugged schedule.

Frank O'Grady clears the puck as John Hansberry shoulder-blocks the B.U. wing.

Joe Morgan skirts the Brown goal after putting the Eagles ahead.

George Costa, Capt. Pete Maggio, and Johnnie Hansberry dress up before the Kelleymen took the ice to beat Yale.

"We made the schedule difficult this year to give the boys experience", said Graduate Manager John Curley, "they came through much better than expected."

The Kelleymen started off the season fast by belting a good Brown team 5-2, and piled up six straight wins before Princeton pulled out a close 6-4 decision at the Lynn Arena on Dec. 21.

The squad's first big test came on New Year's night when they faced the powerful U. S. Olympic sextet and ex-teammates Len Ceglarski and Jack Mulhern. The game broke wide open early in the third period when little Bobby Babinc faked out U.S. netminder Dick Desmond and slipped in the winning goal. Aided no end by junior goalie Joe Carroll who made 27 saves, the Eagles held off the hustling 'Pics for the remainder of the period to clinch the win.

Harvard proved stubborn competition on Jan. 9, but B.C. won it 6-5. On the 28th it was a different story however, as win-hungry Northeastern pulled the upset of the year by dumping the Kelleymen 3-2 in overtime.

B.C.'s toughest weekend came on Feb. 1-2 when the squad journeyed to Upper New York State to face off against Clarkson and St. Lawrence. Both teams, with a wealth of Canadian talent, were undefeated at the time. The Eagles came through with an easy 5-3 effort over Clarkson, and paced by Jack Canniff's two tallies on the following night they completed the sweep by edging the rugged Larries 3-2 in one of the fastest college games ever witnessed in the N.Y. area.

The East's "big game" of the year came two days later when the Eagles had their first meeting with Boston University. "Wimpy" Burtnett, playing the finest game of his career, hat-tricked the Kelleymen to a 6-4 victory over the Terriers before a capacity 5,973 crowd at the Arena. The Maroon had a 2-1 lead after the first chapter on a Joe Morgan tally and "Wimp's" first goal nine minutes later.

Jack Canniff backhanded an unassisted score at 8:26 of the second period and Burtnett gave the Eagles a 4-1 lead two minutes later when he picked up a pass from Bob Siblo and dribbled through two defensemen to beat goalie Paul Kelley. Before the stanza ended however the Terriers rebounded with three goals of their own in less than three minutes to deadlock the score. A classic Snooks Kelley pep talk followed, and the Eagles came roaring back in the finale to dominate the play and score two more goals (by Burtnett and Frank O'Grady) for the win.

The Kelleymen followed this with a Dartmouth victory, dropped the next one to B.U., and then beat Brown, Laval, M.I.T. and Dartmouth again in succession to finish off a great and certainly N.C.A.A.-worthy season.

Frank O'Grady stirs up a little trouble in front of the Harvard goal.

B.C. basketball on the rise since the end of the war, hit its peak with the class of 1952. Under the inspired captaincy of blond Tom O'Toole, the Eagles wound up their greatest victory in history, a 64-61 triumph over Holy Cross. It was the first maroon and gold victory over the Purple in 27 years.

Coach Al "General" McClellan was considered a little optimistic when he predicted B.C. would beat the Crusaders in the finale of the year. After H.C. had beaten the Eagles with clock-like regularity every previous time, B.C. wasn't given any hope of victory. But this time it was different.

From the opening whistle to the wild finish, O'Toole and company beat the Hoyas at their own game. Looking more like the N.I.T.-invited Crusaders than the Crusaders did themselves, the Eagles ran, passed and shot the Purple into submission.

Brooklyn Tommy was tremendous. Besides hitting for 23 points he was the best defensive man on the floor. When he fouled out with 26 seconds remaining, he received a cheer that ranks with any that has ever filled the Garden.

Johnny Silk was easily the top offensive star. He swished in 15 points in the first half that contributed to the 8 point Eagle lead at half time. He tossed in nine more important tallies in the last twenty minutes to help sew up the contest.

The score actually belies the true nature of the game. It wasn't that close. H.C. got a momentary lead in the first period but had to call time when Silk, O'Toole and Duggan scored three swifties in the second period to move B.C. eight points in front.

By the time the second half came around with B.C. out in front, 36-28, the possible outcome began to stir the Eagle fans. Was this to be B.C.'s night of triumph?

The momentum grew until there were 26 seconds left and O'Toole fouled out. Students raised a cheer which didn't die out but reached a roar as the buzzer sounded the end of the game. Old reliable Red Sweeney led the victorious parade of team and students off the floor. It was a pleasant victory for Coach McClellan, who had suffered defeat from the Crusaders in every other game.

There were other highlights to the season. There was the twelve game win streak that started off the season. It included victories over Rhode Island and Connecticut. The win over the UConns was especially pleasing to the Eagles who had dropped a 52-56 upset decision to them the year before.

South Boston's Fran Duggan was the hero in the Connecticut victory. Besides topping the scorers that night with 17 points, Fran contributed one of the best defensive jobs of the season. He held the Nutmeggers' ace forward, Vin Yokabaskas, to 4 points. Yokabaskas had entered the game with an average of 21 points per game.

Also included in that 12 game stretch were victories over such ancient rivals as B.U. and Harvard. The twelfth win came at the expense of Bucknell in the opening game of the Boston Invitational Tournament at the Arena. Silk paced that victory with 21 points but sophomore Tony Daukas was close behind with 19 points, most of which came on a deadly jump shot from the right. The final score was 86-64.

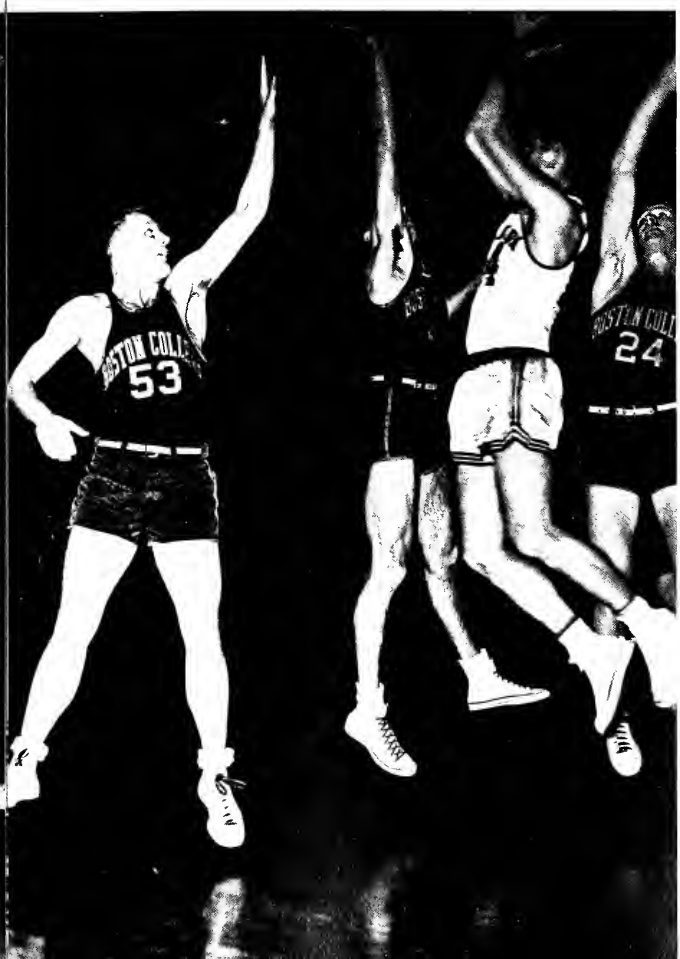
The finals of the tourney paired the Eagles with Holy Cross. The Crusaders had only lost one game, to powerful N.Y.U., and so were rated a slight favorite to stop the B.C. win streak. The game was close up to the closing minutes but then a final spurt by H.C. gave them the game 78-59. Silk with 12 points and O'Toole with 11 were the top maroon and gold scorers.

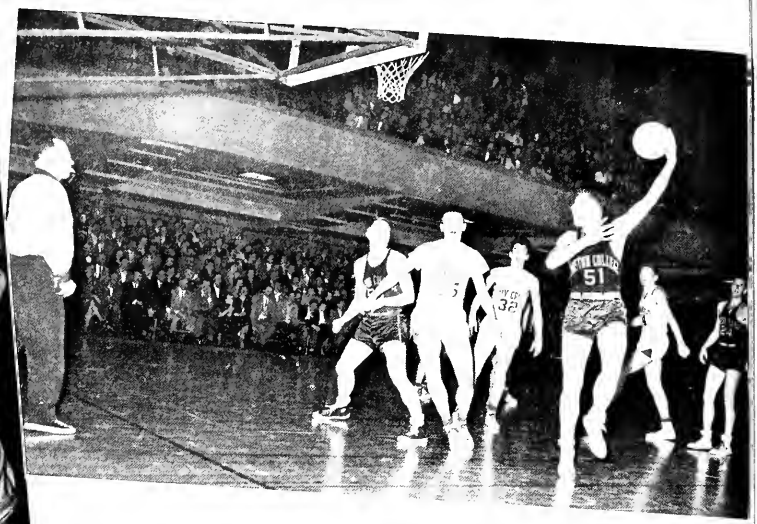
John Whelpley throws a cross block on a Dartmouth forward.

Tony Daukas and Fran Duggan guard against Villanova's Regan.



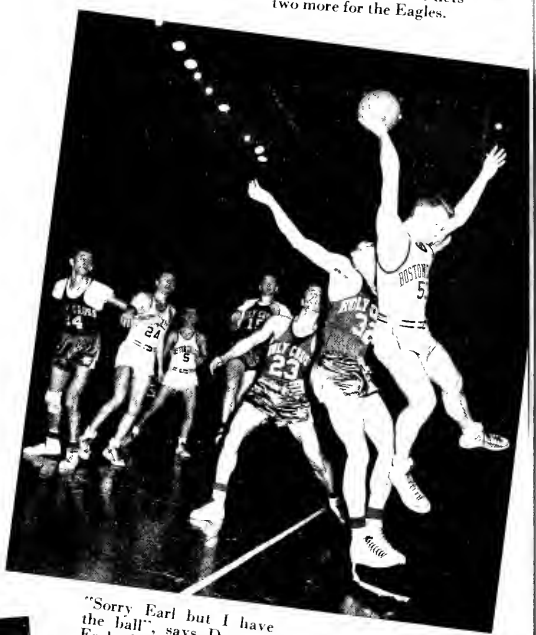
Tom O'Toole throws a backward pass in the game with Bucknell.

John Silk pushes in a "soft one" against Rhode Island.

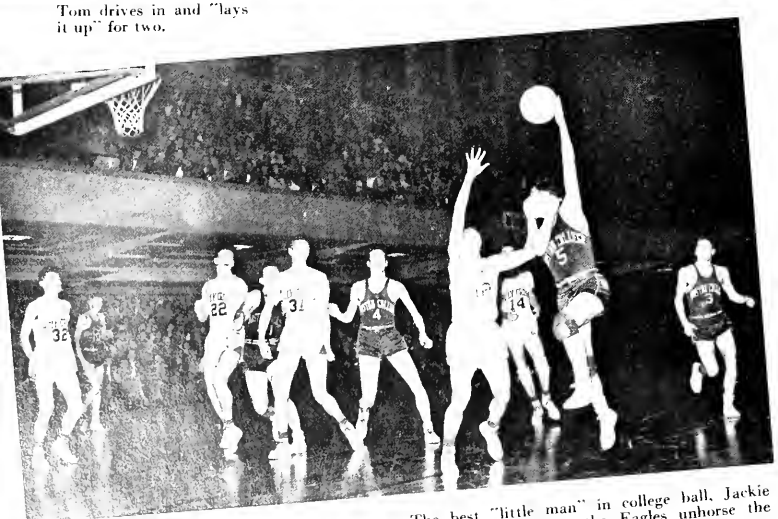


Tim's pattened hook nets two more for the Eagles.

Tom drives in and "lays it up" for two.



"Sorry Earl but I have the ball", says Dugg to Earl Markey of Holy Cross.



The best "little man" in college ball, Jackie Moran, nets two as the Eagles unhorse the Crusaders.

The five on the floor were not alone. Ron Bielicki leaps as six thousand Eagle fans rock the Garden. Final score, B.C. 64—Holy Cross 61.

"That's mine", says John Whelpley, "it's got my name on it."

Highly rated Seton Hall was next on the schedule for the Eagles who were now ranked second to H.C. in New England. The Pirates under the tutelage of former Boston Celtic coach Honey Russell were too much for the Eagles handing them their worst defeat of the year, 80-48. Wally Dukes and Richie Regan combined for 46 points to lead the Pirates to the win. Both received considerable attention in All American teams after the season.

After the Seton Hall loss, the Eagles put together another win streak of six games to regain prominence. It started with an 83-65 decision over Rhode Island at the Heights gym and wound up with an impressive win over LeMoyne University at Syracuse. LeMoyne had whipped Siena which had topped Seton Hall—all of which gave the B.C. victory more importance. The game wasn't even close. Using a zone defense which completely baffled our Jesuit rivals, Johnny Silk, Jackie Moran and Tony Daukas threw in 50 points among them to insure the 74-58 victory.

Another Jesuit nemesis, Canisius of Buffalo, brought us our third loss of the year, 65-55. Johnny Silk, still hot after his 22 point total the previous night, again topped the Eagle scorers with 16 points.

With an impressive 18-3 record, the Eagles walloped Tufts and the New York Athletic Club to bring its season record to 20-3 before making its annual trek to Philadelphia to face Villanova. Still on his scoring spree, Silk had 27 points against N.Y.A.C. for the season's highest individual total so far.

All American Larry Hennessey spelled doom for the Eagles in the Philadelphia contest. The sensational Villanovan junior scored 23 points to help the Wildcats edge the Eagles 72-67.

The Eagles broke a record in their next outing against Brandeis at the Arena. With freshman Vic Aldrich from Gloucester contributing the record-shattering swish, the Eagles rolled up a new high in scoring totals with 96 points against the Judges. Duggan and O'Toole were the high scorers with 20 and 19 points respectively.

A disputed overtime loss to Holy Cross at Worcester 74-80, and victories over B.U., St. Anselm, Springfield, and Brandeis again, brought the B.C. record to 21-5 before its sensational wind-up against the Crusaders at the Garden. The team's final record was 22-5, the best in B.C. history.

O'Toole, Duggan, Moran, O'Connell, McElroy, Silk and Gauthier; These are the men who compiled this record of which they can be proud; a record for which B.C. is proud of them.

A happy crowd escorts the players off the court after their victory over the Crusaders.

At this writing, the 1952 baseball season is only the concern of schedule makers and yearbook chroniclers. However, memories of a thrilling '51 season remain strong, and with a parade of veteran talent returning, Eagle rooters can look forward to an exciting springtime.

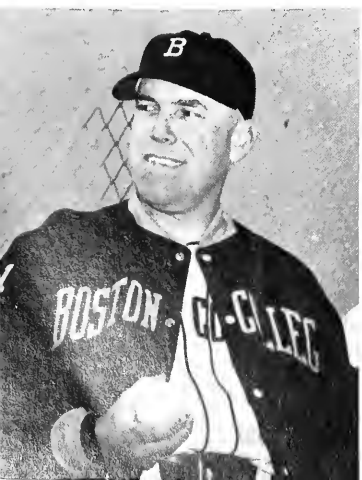
Last year, a schedule conflict kept Boston College from the N.C.A.A. tourney and the official title of New England League Champion which it had won on the field. Lenny Ceglarski and his .435 bat are graduates now, but Coach John Temple has .300 leaguers, Mike "Mr. Captain" Roarke and Joe Morgan (sometime hockey star) still on hand from that team. Also returning are last year's captain, Bill Walsh, Harry Hewes, Larry Sullivan, Bob Manning, Henry Lane and Frank Tanner. The pitching staff remains almost intact from last spring, with Bill Scholz, Frank McGee, Paul Lockary and Jack McKinnon.

Art Collins

Who's at first? Why, Joe Morgan, of course, trying to beat out the throw in a game with Tufts, which B.C. won, 5-1. Joe's efforts at shortstop and his better than 300 batting performance tab him as one of the better B.C. baseball prospects.

Larry Sullivan rounds third and streaks for home on his four-bagger against Northeastern.

Johnny Temple, now in his third year as head man of Eagle diamond doings.



These are the men whose consistent good play kept the echoes ringing across Alumni Field in 1951. First it was Mike Roarke, supporting Bill Scholz' fine pitching with a three-hit barrage that belted Dartmouth, 9-2. Next it was Harry Hewes' game-busting homer in the ninth to edge University of Massachusetts, 2-1.

Against B.U. the Eagles erased a three-run deficit to win 5-4 in one of the year's most thrilling finishes. Butch Walsh led that one. It began a 5 game winning streak (other victories coming over Providence, M.I.T. and Rhode Island) which was climaxed by Scholz' victory over Colby, 5-4. Len Ceglarski and Roarke were the instruments of deliverance in the 11th inning of that affair.

The whole team got its dander up when A.I.C. became N.C.A.A. tourney entry, and Ceglarski, Walsh, Roarke and Franny Harrington paced a 14-run onslaught that swamped the Internats. This continued into the first Holy Cross game when Scholz pitched an excellent shutout. Great fielding and Joe Morgan's bat helped him stymie the Crusaders.

Scholz' 3-4 loss to the Camp Lejeune Marines at Fenway Park outglittered even his shutout performance. Bob Manning's three hits and Len Ceglarski's base stealing had given Bill a one-run lead in the ninth inning, but the former minor leaguers pushed across the winning digits then to beat Willy in his finest effort.

Holy Cross won the remaining games in the annual Pakachoag-Chestnut Hill series and brought B.C.'s year to an unhappy finish, but that represents a challenge surely accepted this season. The returning players have their own achievements to surpass. Those mentioned recall others to mind: Ceglarski's 4-for-4 against Rhode Island State; Hewes and Walsh, ganging up on M.I.T.; Larry Sullivan's home runs; Frank McGee's relief work in stopping Northeastern and Tufts—all memories of the year gone by and pleasant insurance for the present.

Three B.C. trackmen make the turn at Alumni Field.

Track

The Boston College track team closed out the 1951 season under Coaches Ryder and Gilligan with a tidy victory over arch rival Holy Cross. This feat was highlighted by the performance of Captain Irving Howe, who won the quarter and the 175 yd. dash. He left behind him an enviable record for future Heightsmen. The B.C. victory was spearheaded by a clean sweep of the hammer by Sweeney, Emmonds, and O'Brien. Other victories were scored by: Jim Low in the discus, Hal Connolly in the shot, Joe Pickett in the broad jump, Don Fitzpatrick in the pole vault, and Tony Sapienza in the 2-mile. Others who contributed to the cause by their scores were: Billy Bond, Billy Connolly, Jerry O'Hara, Bob MacDonald, and the Dalton twins.

This victory was duplicated in cross country in the autumn of that year. Tony Sapienza, Bob Lemay, Tom Kelley, Billy Bohan, Clarke Phillips, and Tom Griffin were strong for the Eagles.

And now for a quick peek at the remainder of the 1950-51 season. In September, 1950, George Babcock '52 of the team entered the Jesuit seminary along with his team mate John Caskin '50. The season then opened with a cross country loss by a narrow three points to Tufts, followed by upset wins over the favored Massachusetts Aggies and Amherst Lord Jeffs. The season closed with the Eagles moving up to the 13th rank in the New England finals after giving their intra-city rivals from B.U. a scare in a dual meet loss. Tony Sapienza, who had broken the Aggie course, missed the Lord Jeffs' by 4 seconds. Jack Murphy and Bob MacIntyre, who later joined the Marine Corps in March of '51, formed a triumvirate with Tony. Tom "Train Wreck" Kelley and Vas Dalton were in supporting roles.

Although hampered by the recall of 49 second quarter miler Bob McAllister into the service, the mile relay team served notice that B.C. was no pushover. They won the N.Y. and Boston K. of C. relays. Staffed by Capt. Irving Howe, Charley Butler, Harry Carrol, and Bob Castagnola, the team was sparked by Howe's fabulous anchor legs. In the Boston K. of C. race he overcame a 25 yd. deficit to win out. Ditto for his N.Y. gun lap. His attempts to overcome these leads in other relays were futile.

So impressed were the fans that Irving was entered in the famous Hollis 600 of the B.A.A. games. The winter season closed with a dual meet loss to the Polar Bears of Bowdoin, 72½-44½. Howe, Murphy, MacIntyre, and Sapienza, who broke the meet record in the 2-mile, sparkled for B.C. Four triple threat Bowdoin men were the difference.

Harvard defeated B.C. in the first out door meet 101-39. The meet was highlighted by the same Eagle cinder stars. The big surprise of the meet was the B.C.'s mile relay team victory over the Johnnies. Phil Dalton replaced Charley Butler in this meet. O'Hara suffered a heart breaking loss in the high jump bowing out at six feet.

Weakness in the strong man events cost the Eagles the Maine meet. O'Hara won in this meet and Billy Bond joined the parade with six points in the hurdles. Joe Pickett won the broad jump with Sapienza winning the mile by his chest.

Despite Howe, Amherst beat B.C. He had good support, however, from Jim Low, Billy and Hal Connolly, Joe Pickett, Billy Bond, and Don Fitzpatrick. Don bowed out at 11 ft. to lose the pole vault. This tough loss came after his best jump of the season.

The victory over the Cross came next to the win-hungry Eagles, a fitting climax to a great post war rebuilding job. A successful future was seen for the next year. Billy Connolly, ace sprinter, was elected captain for 1952.

Tennis

At Boston College, Tennis has become quite a racket. A functioning enterprise before the war for more years than golfers care to remember, the club, since 1947, has been under the enthusiastic guidance of Mr. John J. Brennan—no slouch on the court himself. Last year, although four of its matches were rained out, the club participated in six singles and three doubles. It submitted in combat to Holy Cross, Tufts and M.I.T., but dealt with Babson, Umass and B.U. in more tidy and victorious fashion. It was successful enough to reach the quarter-finals of the N.E. Inter-collegiate matches at Brown.

Headlining the returning veterans this year are Capt. George Pierce and Joe Chisholm, CBA Seniors, and juniors Arthur Driscoll, Ed Cauley and Don Burgess. Phil Maloney, a mainstay last season, was expected back but is at Tufts Dental now.

Matches this year are, among others, with M.I.T. and Amherst in April, Assumption and Holy Cross in May, Tufts, B.U., and, from May 16-18, at the N.E. Intercollegiates at Yale.

Now it's this way. Coach Brennan shows Johnny McCauley how.

Golf

Promise? You said it. Leo Grace and Eddie Iarrabino will win many a match for Coach Kelley.

Mashy niblicks, anyone? Riding high on an undefeated streak of 16 straight matches, the golf team is staffed with a happy mixture of youth and experience. Guided by hockey head man John Kelley, the Eagle divot-diggers have balance and depth.

Captain Hugh Mullin and Paul Kendrick were lost from last year's undefeated group, but now three qualifiers for the State Amateur form the backbone of the '52 squad. Charles River's club champion, Leo Grace, is widely considered the best young golfer in the state. A former C.Y.O. and State Junior title holder, Grace reached the State Amateur quarter-finals in his initial effort.

The present C.Y.O. and M.G.A. king, Bruce Desrosiers, is the most improved golfer, according to Kelley. Bruce is sharp in match play. And Ed Iarrabino and his magic putter are already legend. A frail athlete, Eddie hits 'em far and straight.

Seniors Bill Hynes and Tom Megan insure power in the middle of the line-up. They were semi-finalists in the C.Y.O. competition. And watch out for newcomers Ben Murphy and Larry Warren. Don't forget Bob and Bill Zirkel, Bill Kendrick and Paul Ochs. Fore!

With Boston for a backdrop, two B.C. skippers head out to sea (Charles River, that is.)

The Yacht Club operated as one of the most active Eagle enterprises as it competed in 17 regattas during the 1951 Spring and Fall seasons.

Major regattas of that Spring season included the Greater Boston Dinghy Championship, the Boston University Invitation Regatta (in which B.C. failed to place first only because of a last-race tip-over), the Boston College-Holy Cross dual regatta for the Mel Spence Trophy, and the Boston Dinghy Club Challenge Regatta.

High point of the season came as the club won its sixth straight Holy Cross dual regatta and held the Spence Trophy for the third successive year. The Yacht Club has yet to be outdone by Holy Cross in the post-war period.

The Spring season ended with a fine showing in the Dinghy Club regatta. Leading skippers for the season were Jack McMath '51, and Bob Gaynor, George Adams and Dick Fallon, all of '52.

The Fall season included the Tenth Annual Coast Guard Academy Invitational Regatta, the Eastern Massachusetts Hexagonal for the Lane Trophy and the Greater Boston Dinghy Championship for the Oberg Trophy.

The three top clubs in N.E. are invited each year to compete with host team Coast Guard Academy in its Invitational. This year's contestants, besides B.C. and Coast Guard, were Harvard and M.I.T. Officers of the club this year were: Dick Fallon, Commodore; Bob Gaynor, Vice Commodore; Jack Day, Rear Commodore; George Adams, Team Captain, and Jack Creedon, Secretary.

Intramurals

A tense moment during the intra-mural basketball playoffs.

Because the intramural sports program was the most popular of all recreational extra-curricular activities, it is certain that many members of this class of 1952 will take with them cherished memories of their own participation in the program.

Moderator Father James Ring, Director Malcolm McLoud and others who are responsible for the introduction and maintenance of organized intramurals at the Heights hope that the graduating student will take away even more than fond recollections. They hope that he will take away a fully developed spirit of fair play, an interest in the preservation of bodily health and the much needed "will to win"—or to lose courageously.

If intramurals has helped the student to acquire these attributes, the program can be considered a success.

The Department of Intramurals was still in the embryonic stage when the class of '52 took its first faltering steps up Linden Lane. It can indeed be said that the two infants, intramurals and the Class of '52, grew, side by side, to maturity over the past four years.

The immediate aims of the program were to provide the students with recreation and relief from the long hours in the classroom; to promote health; to provide a means by which the student could increase his number of acquaintances and become a "part of things."

To the freshman, the last of these aims is probably the most important. Do you remember those early weeks? Weren't you a little nonplused by the strange surroundings and new faces?

If you took part in intramurals that fall, you probably can also remember how quickly yonr friends multiplied and, again, how quickly your sense of "aloneness" slipped away.

The class of '52 must have caught the competitive spirit early and retained it for four years. For, from the beginning nntil now, almost the end, the majority of its members have, year after year, participated in one or more (usually more) IM sport.

For example, in Freshman year, 35.4 percent of the entire student body took part in the program. This was considered an excellent figure by the IM authorities and was certainly high enough to convince the administrators that the students wanted intramurals. Yet, in comparison to that fignre, 52 percent of the freshman class participated.

These freshmen of '48-'49 had their first taste of a big intramural triumph when that fabulous basketball team, the Mixups, were awarded maroon and gold jackets for winning the championship in a thrilling playoff. At least three, who are now seniors, were on that club.

But the greatest achievement was in softball where a group of upstart frosh, called the Loopers, won six consecutive games from chagrined upper classmen and took home the prize of the champion.

This triumph seemed to encourage the class of '52 to test new fields and when they returned to the campus as sophomores in 1949, they wasted little time in forming teams. That year, 46.8 percent of the student body took part in one or more sports. But, of the Sophomore class, 59.4 percent were active! This was an increase of 30 percent over the previous sophomore class.

In touch-football that year, after all other teams were eliminated, the championship game was played between two sophomore units, the Mighty Mites and the Aerolytes. The former won the title and are still wearing the championship jackets.

Joe Chisolm, a sophomore in '49-'50, won the 'mural tennis crown and the Class of '52 refused to relinquish the softball crown as the "Bills" won it for the sophomores.

The perils of Philosophy forced some scholars away from athletic competition in Junior year but the percentage fell off only slightly. 57.7 percent of the class of '52 took part in Father Ring's fast growing program. Meanwhile, the overall percentage rose still higher, as 53.6 percent of the entire student body participated.

That fall of 1950 found the predominantly junior Gay Blades winning the touch-football title. Junior Fran Duggan caught junior Charley Hannafin's long pass for the decisive score.

Juniors Barry and Dick Driscoll and Joe McKenney helped the Mixups regain the basketball crown and "old '52" was producing winners and near winners in nearly every phase of IM competition.

During the third year, Mr. McLoud sent out a call for volunteer assistants to help the heavily burdened IM office staff. Franny O'Leary, of the Class of '52 became the most enthusiastic undergraduate aide. Coincidentally, Franny had been a key member of the Loopers, the first all '52 team to win a major title.

As this is written, only one of the three major championships for '51-'52 has been won. This, of course, was touch-football. The final game of the playoffs proved to be a repeat performance of that sophomore year as two teams from the Class of '52 faced each other across Alumni Field. The Gents AA were the winners over the Bluebirds. These senior champs included former members of both the Mighty Mites and Gay Blades.

As this yearbook was going to press, Mr. McLoud and his graduate aides, Joe Bastable and Tom Seymour, were being kept busy scheduling basketball games during one of the most exciting of all seasons. It would be difficult to pick out any strong senior teams since many squads are made up of students from different classes. But we can mention one senior who has been an intramural basketball all star for three years and bids fair to win this year's most valuable player award, one of the few prizes that has eluded the men of '52. Any intramural fan could tell you his name; it's Bobby Lynch.

So, it's goodbye to intramurals but not to the sportsmanship we learned while being a part of them.

FULTON DEBATING SOCIETY

Clear resonant voices proclaiming the injustice of Irish partition, the necessity of a permanent policy of wage and price control, the too great demands of the average American woman on her husband, were heard in room T305 as the Fulton initiated the 1951-52 debate season. Under the expert guidance of the moderator Fr. Paul McManus, S.J., and the president Mr. Frank Dooley, the Fultonians were engaged in debates with Holy Cross, Emmanuel, Harvard, Albertus Magnus and Boston University before the student body realized the school year had begun.

With Fr. McManus's passion for large and varied audiences ever active, representatives of the Fulton appeared before fellow students, Holy Name Societies, K. of C. Councils and Women's Clubs, spreading the fame of the Fulton throughout the region.

Whether it was Henry Tsyzkowski and Jim Awad upholding Irish Partition, Frank Dooley and Ed Sheehan condemning the average American woman, or Bill Falvey and Jim Gorman denouncing a policy of permanent wage and price control, the arts of oratory and debate were assiduously cultivated.

With the election of Jim Gorman as president and Bill Falvey as vice president, the second semester showed promise of being even more active and more successful than the first. Invitations have been received and accepted from Annapolis, Brown, Holy Cross, Providence College, St. Anselm's, and Yeshiva Academy, while requests for exhibition debates throughout the Archdiocese have been numerous.

Jack Donovan, Bill Fandel, Charlie Brown, George Burke, Bob Quinn, Frank McGee, and Vas Dalton are but a few of the senior members of the Fulton who are preparing to engage in the battle of words with the previously named colleges, while a surprising number of equally talented juniors show promise of bringing great prestige and honor to Boston College and the Fulton, during the ensuing months.

But if the debate calendar is full of intercollegiate and exhibition debates, all these are secondary to the high-point of the debating season—the annual prize medal debate. This is to every Fultonian the debate of debates and a more than fitting climax to four years of college debating where that wonderful but frightening sentence is heard—"One Caesar lives, a thousand are forgotten."

"Mark Him Well, the True Son of Mary"

Note his distinctive air, see how proudly he holds his head, observe his resolution of purpose, refresh yourself in his delightful company.

He has left our midst now, but his spirit is forever interwoven in the fibre of the Boston College Sodality. He has left, to carry out his ambassadorship, to which he was destined from the day of his first association with the Sodality—an ambassadorship, in the name of his Queen, Mary—a mission which, for him, will not terminate as long as he breathes.

His stay here, as we see it in retrospect, was brief; but, he had to give way to the relentless stream of fresh aspiring youth, desiring also to be outfitted with the armor of Mary's special love, preparatory to the fierce and often mystifying battle of life.

He has left now, to join his brothers in a glorious apostolate. He has labored hard; he has received much—much is expected of him.

He is part of an elect body, a retinue of singularly favored men. He is embarked upon a great and onerous work. Surely, this twentieth century apostle will one day be admitted to the company of the "first twelve."

Mark him well, this son of Mary.

Dramatics

An October production of Shakespeare's lively comedy, "The Taming of the Shrew", inaugurated the Boston College dramatists' 1951-52 season. Director Francis Sidlauskas' designs adapted from the original Globe Theatre materialized under the capable hands of Paul Nolan and his production crew. The colorfully authentic replica was a highlight of the show. The applause of capacity crowds on each of the three nights the play was presented rewarded the long and arduous rehearsals of the thespians. Contributing greatly to the success of the show were the performances given by John Dooley, Sumner Gorman, Vice-President Henry Algase, and President Louis Gaglini, all seniors. Another senior, Francis E. O'Brien, BCDS Secretary, supervised the lighting effects. Publicity Manager James Regan, aided by Nicholas Loscocco and Justin Laforet, respectively treasurer and part time actor, accomplished unprecedented feats of advertising with widespread press notices, flyers, and posters.

Interest mounted high as a one-act play contest presented further outlet for the thespians' talents. Four plays, directed by student-members themselves, were critically viewed and judged by members of the faculty just prior to the Christmas vacation. The immediate object of the contest was to take up the slack between shows, maintain interest, and provide incentive, experience, and enjoyment for all the members, whose numbers had increased so rapidly.

December and January found the dramatists furiously preparing for the most difficult undertaking of the season, the timely Broadway and Hollywood hit "Command Decision". Air Force uniforms filled the stage of the Campus Auditorium, in keeping with the tenor of the times, as the gripping drama again found seniors prominent in the cast . . . John Dooley as the cynical Brockhurst and Louis Gaglini in the role of K.C. Dennis. The realism of the play extended even to GI haircuts for all the actors, a heretofore unthought-of sacrifice. Thinly-thatched heads are still in evidence as we go to press. The denizens of the Green Room had given their all.

Under the capable handling of the Director Francis Sidlauskas, and the encouragement of the Faculty Moderator Robert McEwen, S.J., the Society completed a successful eighty-sixth year. The friendships formed, the experience and confidence gained will not be lost.

For the yearbook we thought a glimpse of the Heights, how it's put together and the jobs of the editors, might prove interesting.

Monday the business manager lines up his ads and the managing editor places them in appropriate positions on the "dummy sheets". This is a vital part in the operation of any newspaper in that advertising revenue is the lifeblood of a paper. This past year on account of soaring costs the Heights felt obliged to increase the advertising ratio and to omit printing less important matter.

After the ads have been placed, the news editor and the managing editor align the news stories on the "dummies". Despite last minute changes the news department can be depended upon to produce the copy as quickly as possible.

The gallant prose manufactured by the feature writers has caused many an eyebrow to lift—in approbation, of course. Pages four and five encompass articles on entertainment, humor, "social life" and the editorials.

Occupying the last few pages are those devoted to sports, probably the most widely read of any in the paper. The activities of the teams are eloquently portrayed within the confines of the sports' section.

Another job which is sometimes overlooked is that of circulation. The circulation editor and his assistants spend every Friday afternoon distributing and mailing out copies of the Heights.

By deadline time, Tuesday night, all the above departments and their copy must be integrated with the paper as a whole. In the furthering of this aim occasionally the editors-in-chief are useful, since besides writing editorials and setting policy their main job is to coordinate.

GUIDEPOST

We are proud of the "Guidepost" here at Boston College. It has grown and expanded during the last three years from a mimeographed sheet to a colorfully bound economic journal. The editors and staff have labored under many hardships to bring this transition about.

This year the feature articles and editorials have stressed the importance of moral principles as the only basis for economic relations. Other articles throughout the year have dealt with specific business problems and trends of current importance.

The "Guidepost" has pioneered the way as the first undergraduate review of business and economics. It is hoped that through this medium, students in other fields will come to appreciate and understand the perplexing difficulties of fostering social and economic order.

STYLUS

Under the leadership of Francis E. O'Brien, Editor, the Stylus, literary magazine of the campus, has enjoyed widespread acclaim this year. William Bond and John Dooley are two of the associate editors who have contributed greatly to its success. Managing Editor Robert Gavaghan along with Business Manager James Kenneally and his assistants Paul Clinton and James DeGiacomo were the other seniors responsible for its popularity with the student body.

To the class of 1952
Boston College
Chestnut Hill 67, Mass.

Dear Classmates,

Here is your "Sub Turri." Here is your record of "golden memories." Its success is for you to judge. If it does not adequately portray the fine record of the Class of '52, we ask you to remember, that the memories are your own and the events once lived belittle all efforts, but your own, to record them.

I would like very much, at this time, to express my particular gratitude to the following gentlemen, whose unselfish cooperation was responsible for the 1952 Sub Turri:

To Arthur Cudmore, staff photographer, whose cooperation and patience was unparalleled; To Frank Ahearn, Bob Quinn and the many section representatives responsible for our contacts with the students; To Tom Kane whose artistic talents were always available; To Frank McGee, Roger Connor, Bob Freeley and the others who were always willing to help at any task. To Jack Donovan and George Burke, responsible not only for our very successful subscription drive, but for making pleasant many of the difficult moments; To the nucleus of under classmen like Walter Hassenfuss, Neil O'Keefe, John Viollette, Ed Stegeman and Mike Waldron, for the countless tasks they performed and the time they spent on our book.

To my own staff of which I can honestly boast as being the finest in Sub Turri history.

Those, fellow classmates, are the men who deserve your praise for the 1952 Sub Turri.

Your record was a splendid one—its compilation a pleasure for us all.

Gratefully yours,

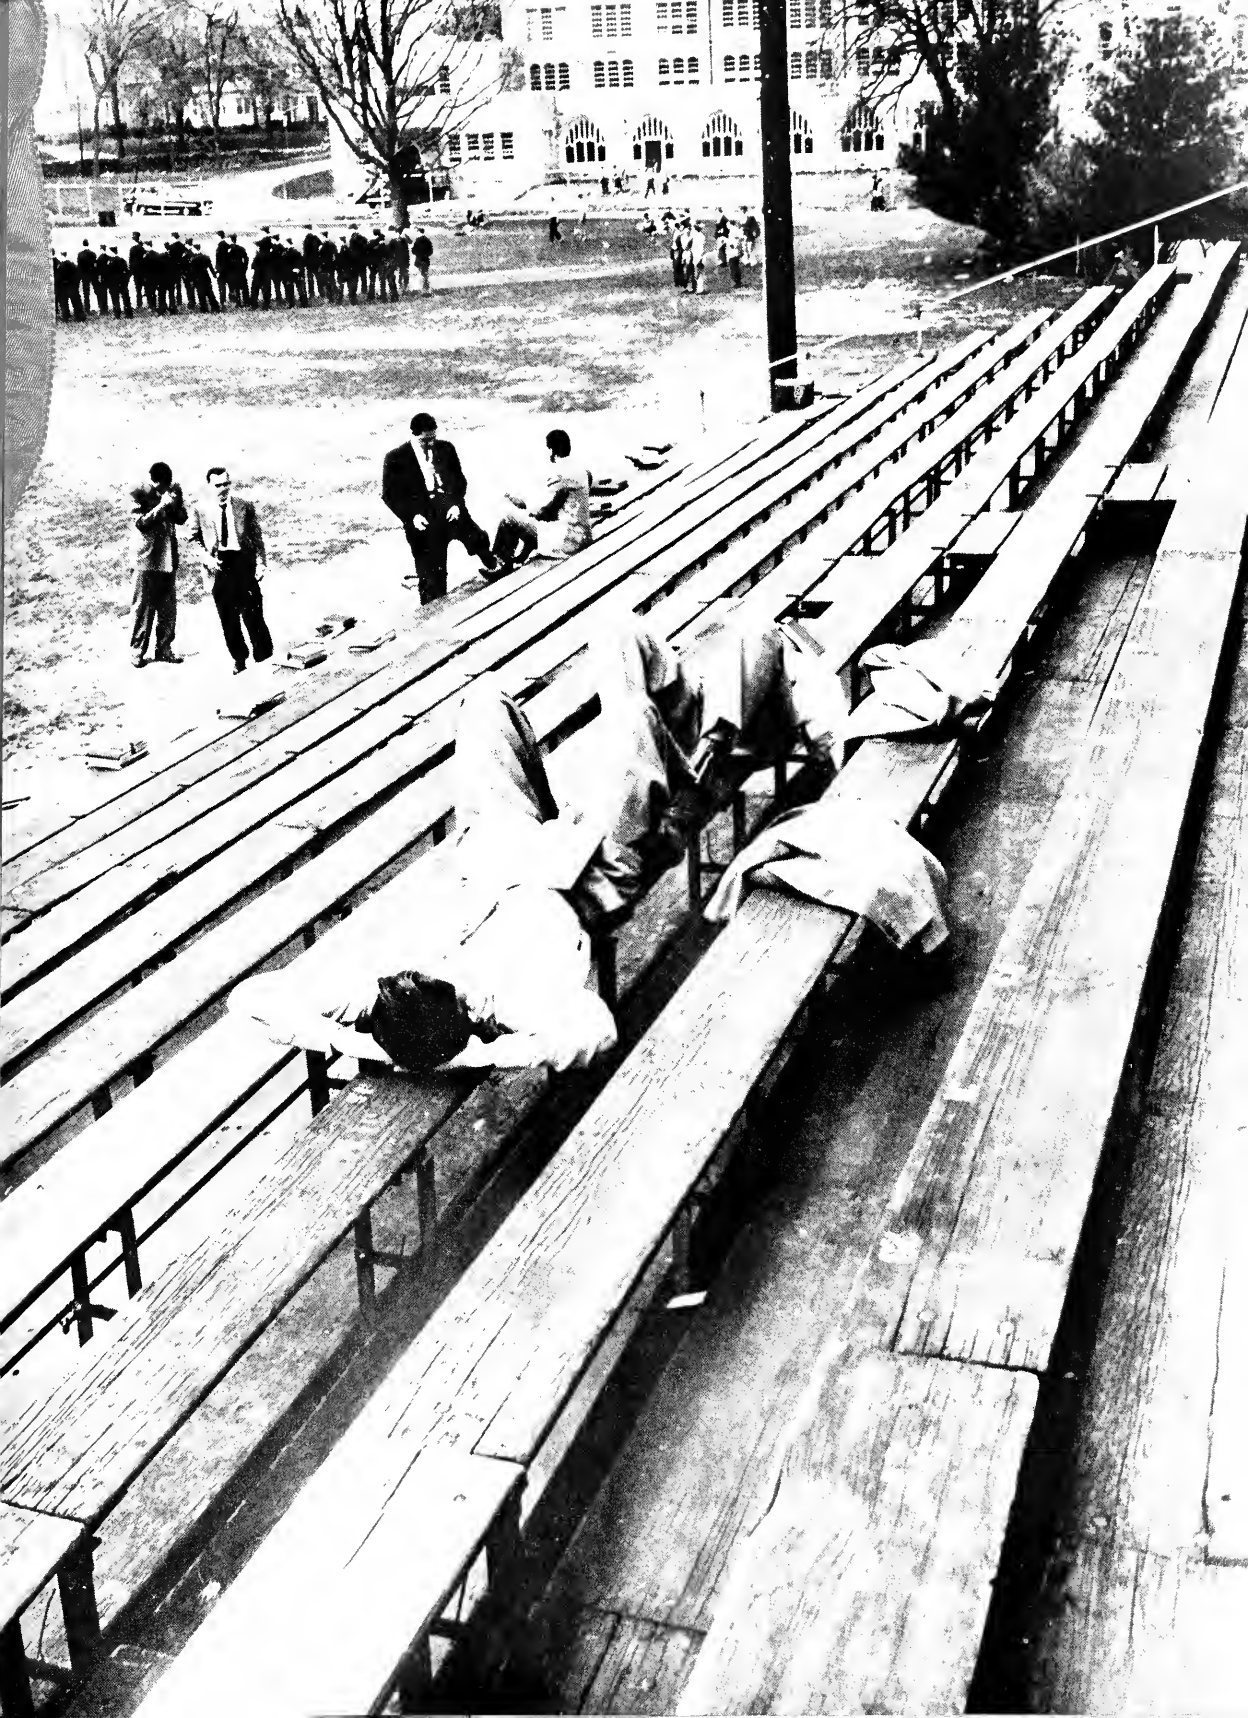
Fondly thy mem'ries round our hearts still cling

As DAYS fade into years and life's thread spins on, we shall return to ALMA MATER for commencements, anniversaries and reunions. We will return more gray and more wise no doubt, but we will surely return more appreciative of the college days we spent beneath these towers. The friends we knew, the priests and professors we admired, our own achievements and experiences here—memories of them all will flood down upon us like spring showers on the campus.

What a treasure-chest of recollections, each building, each landmark, each path will hold. A simple spot like the library steps—what memories it can bestir. Remember that on these steps stood the altar for the annual Mass of the Holy Ghost. We can visualize again four thousand men kneeling in prayer before it. Remember football and hockey heroes on these steps at student rallies. We can hear again "For Boston" springing from every throat and heart. Remember the farewell speeches of '52 that were given from these steps. We can taste again the joy and the sadness that came with the realization that we had graduated, we were leaving, the Tower clock had rung out our final student hours.

Close to our hearts we will keep every association with ALMA MATER. Thoughts of her, will lighten our burdens in the years ahead. May we be always a joy to her as she has been a joy to us.



FALL

Well, here's Senior Year for the Class of '52 . . . Four years certainly can pass quickly . . . Rev. Joseph R. N. Maxwell, S.J., is our new College President . . . Back to the books again! . . . The heap of registration cards is the first step . . .Then the endless lines weaving in and out of the bookstore . . . The curious strolls through the newest landmark on the campus . . . A gold cross rising against a clear blue sky . . . "That's the Philosophy Building! Have you seen that cafeteria yet, Joe?" . . . "Here's the Senior Lounge! Looks mighty comfortable, doesn't it?" . . . In class the puzzled expressions over Thesis Six etc. . . . "But, Father, I still don't see why . . ." Brilliant red vestments gleaming in the strong autumn sun at the Mass of the Holy Ghost . . . The low murmuring voice before the altar . . . "Sanctus, Sanctus, Sanctus!" . . . The "New Look" Stylus every month . . . Those Friday nights at Braves Field! . . . "For Boston College! At left end, Captain Mike Roarke . . ." The thud of crashing bodies clearing a path goalward . . . "Let's go, Bee Cee!" . . . The "Heights" every Friday noon . . . Three days of solemn retreat conducted by a magnificent orator and wise counsellor, Fr. Leo O'Keefe, S.J. . . . Thoughts of the future, vocations, a place in the world . . . Eagle feathers droop a bit . . . Mississippi, Clemson et al. do some plucking . . . Classes, studies, dances . . . Those intramural football games! . . . Memories of Friday noontime when onrushing linemen meet spirited blockers . . . "Hey, Mac, where's the First Aid Room?" . . . Once more W. Shakespeare in his "Taming of The Shrew" . . . Lou Gaglini as "Father Baptista" . . . Sub Turri launches subscription drive . . . Victory! First Richmond, and then a stunning upset over Villanova . . . First Football Smoker before that Villanova game . . . Classes, studies, and dances the weekly collegiate fare . . . Dec. 2 and "The Game!" . . . Launched the night before with a spirited rally on Alumni Field . . . 40,000 cheering fans at Braves Field . . . McCauley and Roarke

R.O.T.C.

Halt. Who is there? . . . Advance to be recognized.

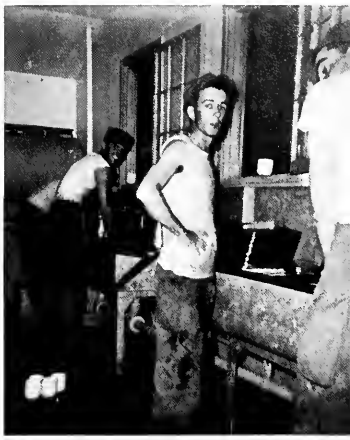
The flag is up . . . The flag is waving . . . The flag is down . . . Targets up, commence firing.

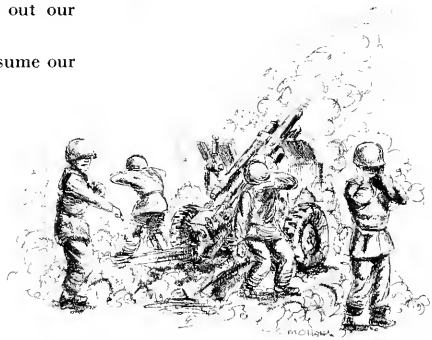
Entering college involves many choices, and we, the members of the R.O.T.C. chose an extra course which most of our freshman colleagues did not. To us Military Science meant something new and most probably interesting, but to them it signified only three additional class hours per week. From these three in the first two years and the five hours in Junior and Senior years we reaped our reward in contact with the fine officers and men of the Military Science Department, in a foundation of military knowledge, and in social activity.

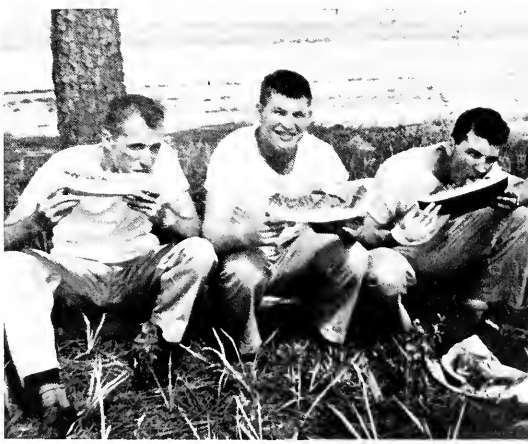
The first two elements are self-explanatory, while the last consisted in the Annual Military Balls, Military Masses, Spring and Fall Parades, the Drill Team, the Rifle Team, and I. and E. Our graduating class leaves its mark at B.C. as the originator of the Annual Informal R.O.T.C. dance—an event that was highly successful last year, and which we hope will become an integral part of the school's social calendar.

Perhaps the biggest event in our four years was our six weeks at Fort Bragg following our Junior year. Here we lived the life of recruits in all its glory—rising between 0300 and 0445 hours every morning, policing the area, guard duty, K.P., and 'though artillerymen, we did an infantryman's marching every day. The climax came during the sixth week in the form of a four-day R.S.O.P. involving night movement, "dry" fire missions, bathing in a helmet, removing and replacing half the State of North Carolina with shovels, etc. New assignments every day enabled us all to perform duties from those of cannoneer number eight to Battery Commander, with demonstrations by Regular Army units to round out our orientation to Army life.

And now with active duty in the near future for all of us, we are prepared to assume our duties as officers.







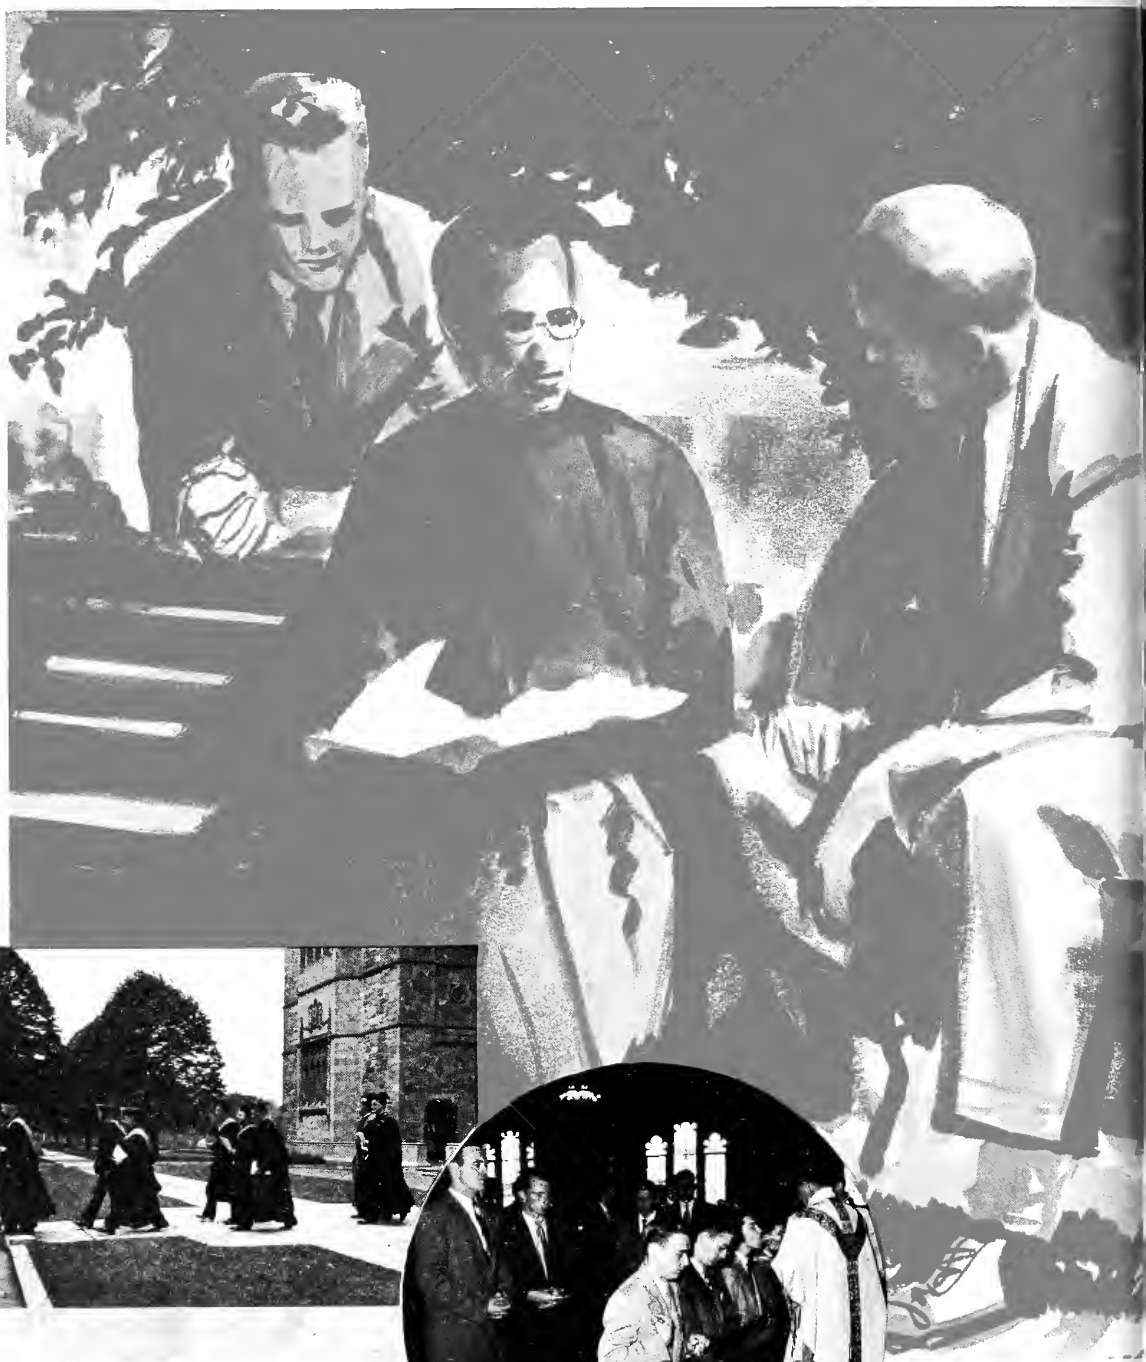
The Boston College R.O.T.C. floods Red Cross Bloodmobile.

Congratulations, Lieutenant.

Saint Barbara, protect us.

Congratulations, Darling.

Faculty



Guide of our youth

COME ALMA MATER—Let us join that long continuous ribbon of men; Jesuits from St. Mary's, lay professors from the faculty halls of your palace, that long sacred line which ends at the door of each classroom. Share with us your eternal love and gratitude for those who form and fashion the minds, hearts and characters of your sons. Share with us your reverence and respect for these men—the molders of a soft wax—the guardians of an eternal soul. Text in hand, Christ in heart, they enter daily the vineyard of life to make men of the boys, soldiers of the men, saints of the soldiers. With every grade recorded in the green ledger there is a recording of the pen in the ledger of life, for to teach the young the wisdom of the ages was the chosen work of the Master of them both. Let us follow those footfalls—ALMA MATER—through the archways of Gasson, the foyers of Fulton, up the winding stairways of Devlin and Lyons to the thresholds of a hundred classrooms, vineyards where the teacher labors for your sons, where your sons become part of you.

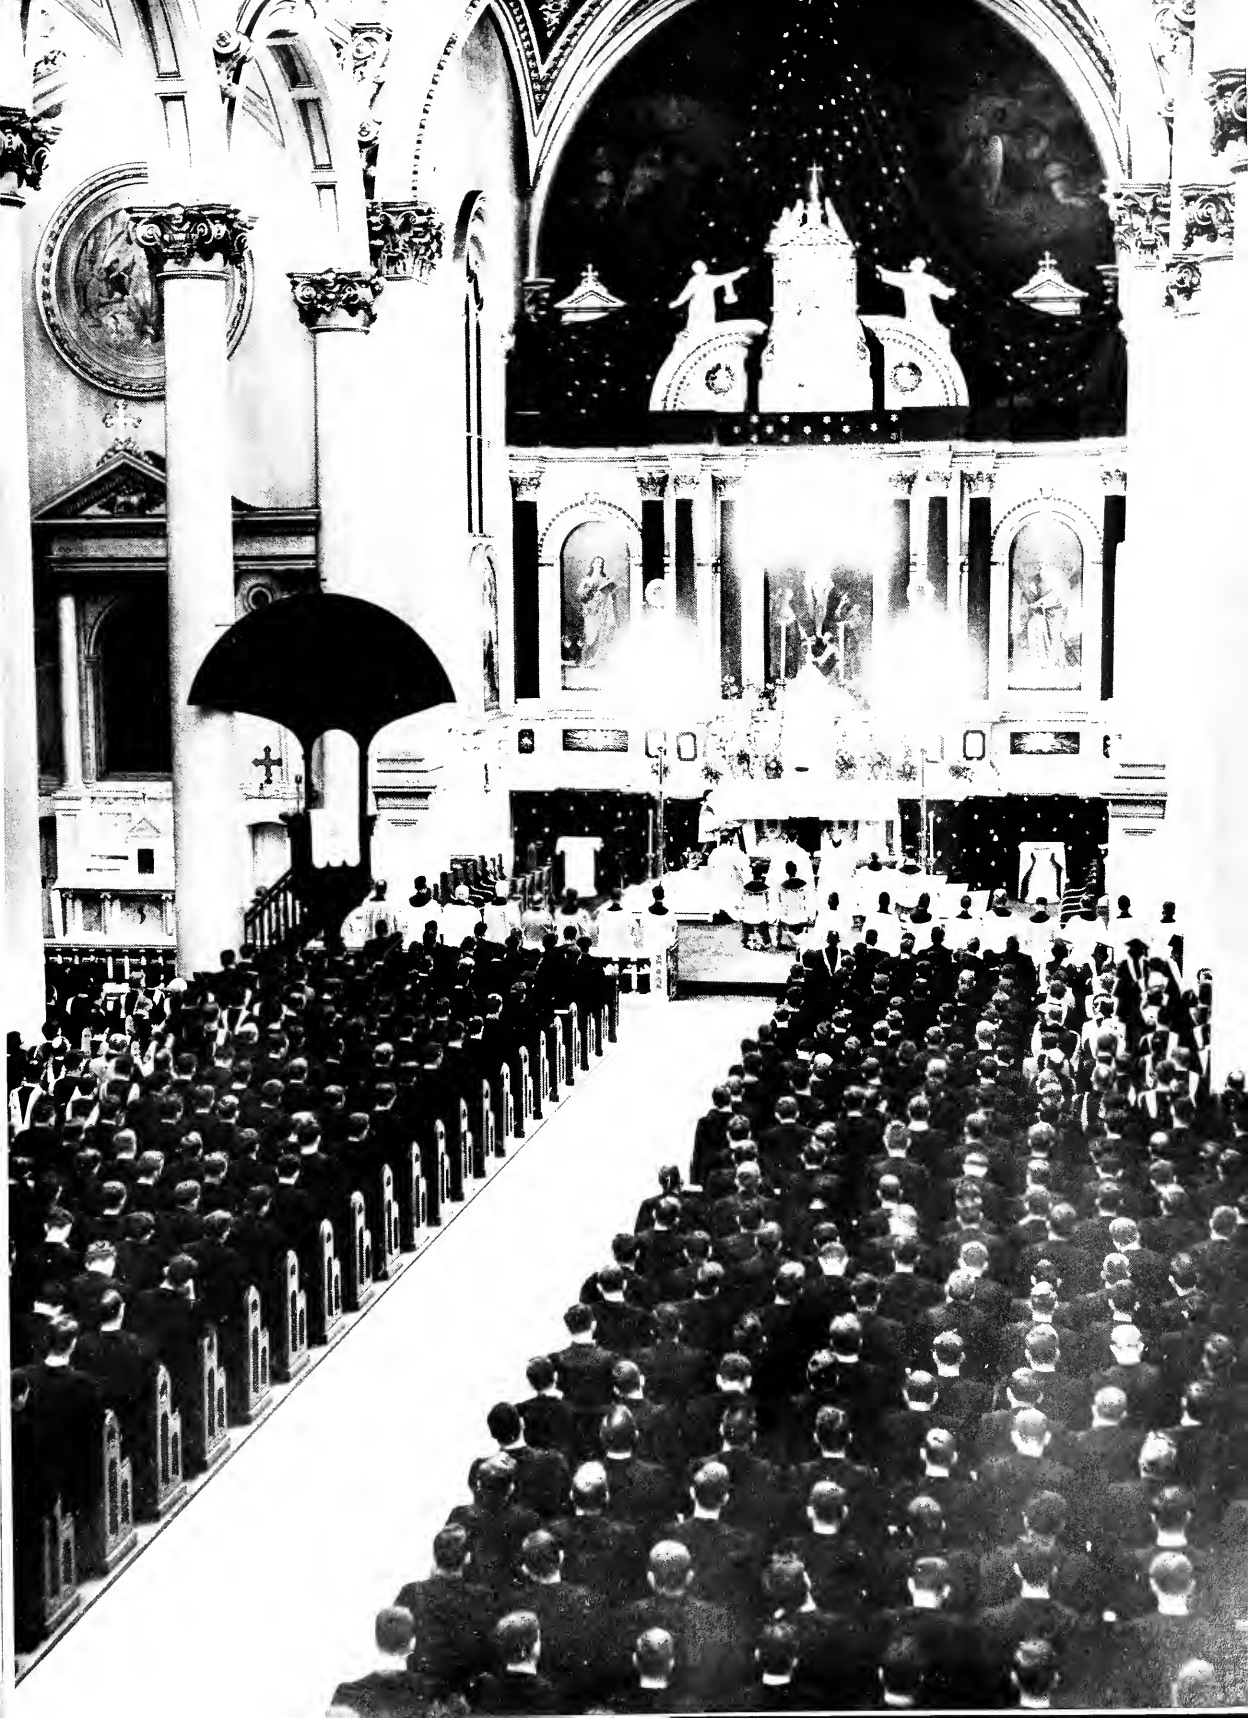
Thru' thee we shall prevail!

COME WITH us now ALMA MATER as we turn the pages of your seventy-sixth commencement class. Herein are the men of '52. Each face contains the history of a hundred different episodes—memories of our days with Alma Mater. The posed confidence of their portraits gives way under a thoughtful gaze to scenes less formal and more enjoyable. Cafeteria, locker room, class, chapel, gym and corridor are but a few of the familiar settings associated with each. Here are the men of happy and sorrowful memories, some known to us all, some known only to you ALMA MATER.

Keep them together now ALMA MATER as you did in the past. Remind them of their special brotherhood. They are Boston College; Boston College is a part of them. The joys and sorrows of each are to be the special attention of them all and the memories of the past are to be the unbreakable bonds of interest. You ALMA MATER have judged them fit. The world is now weighing your judgment.



Accounting & Finance

". . . A profession, the members of which; by virtue of their general education and professional training, offer to the community their services in all matters having to do with the recording, verification and presentation of facts involving the acquisition, production, conservation and transfer of values."

BULLETIN NO. 7 AMERICAN INSTITUTE OF ACCOUNTANTS.

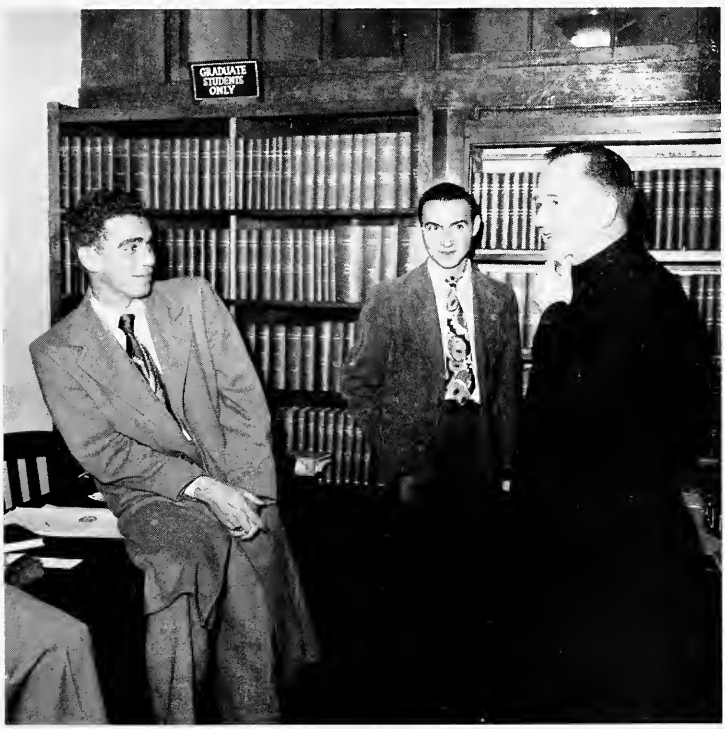
PAUL DEVLIN

Professor of Accounting

Biology

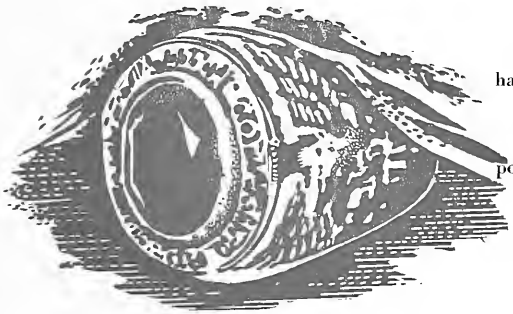
"Biology . . . take some interest in those sacred dwellings meaningly described as laboratories. There Humanity grows greater, better, stronger, there she can learn to read the works of Nature, works of progress and universal harmony, while Humanity's own works are too often those of barbarism, of fanaticism and of destruction."

L. Pasteur



Rev. Michael P. Walsh, S.J.
Chairman of Biology Department

Chemistry



"The knowledge of God is clear to their minds; God himself has made it clear to them; from the foundations of the world men have caught sight of his invisible nature, his eternal power and his divineness, as they are known through his creatures."

Economics

"The ideas of economists and political philosophers . . . are more powerful than commonly understood. Indeed the world is ruled by little else . . . the power of vested interests is vastly exaggerated compared with the gradual encroachment of ideas . . . soon or late, it is ideas, not vested interests, which are dangerous for good or evil."

J. M. Keynes

Rev. W. Seavey Joyce, S.J.
Chairman of Economics Department

Education

"Perfect schools are the result not so much of good methods as of good teachers, teachers who are thoroughly prepared and well-grounded in the matter they have to teach; who possess the intellectual and moral qualifications required by their important office; who cherish a pure and holy love for the youths confided to them, because they love Jesus Christ and His Church, of which these are the children of predilection; and who have therefore sincerely at heart the true good of family and country."

Pope Pius XI

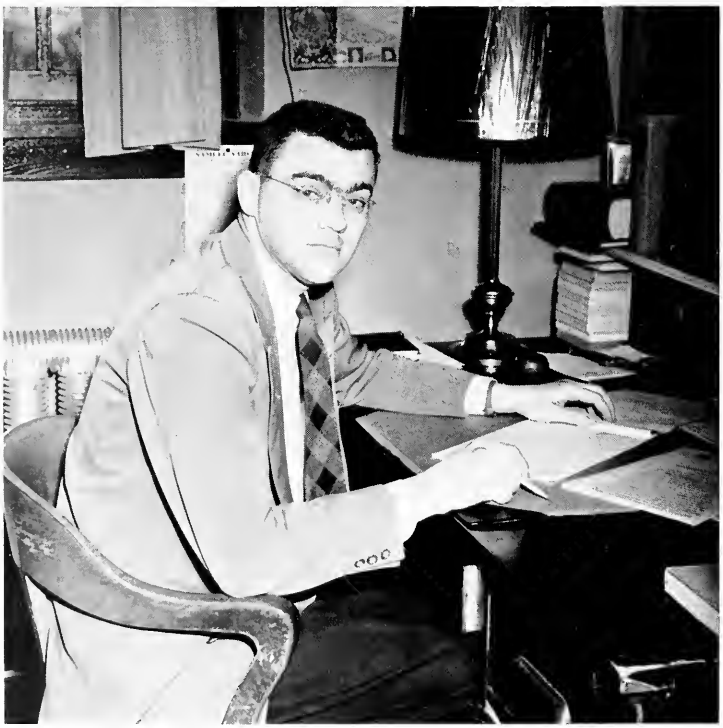
Frank M. Buckley
Assistant Professor of Education

English

Reading maketh a full man: conference a ready man:
and writing an exact man.

FRANCIS BACON—

From the songs of the scop who strummed the praises of Beowulf in flame-lit Heorot to the nightmare meanings of the Wake of Finn—this is the range of English Literature. Its beauty, depth, and richness flash before the mind as we recall Chaucer on the Canterbury road: Shakespeare on the apron of the Globe with Jonson and Marlowe off-stage, and Milton blind dictating to his daughter. We can conjure from the mists Donne in the pulpit at Paul's, Pope at Twickenham, Burke in the House, Johnson in the King's Library, and Byron in the thunderstorm at Missolonghi. They felt the touch of the unseen power and gave us the beauty which is a joy forever.

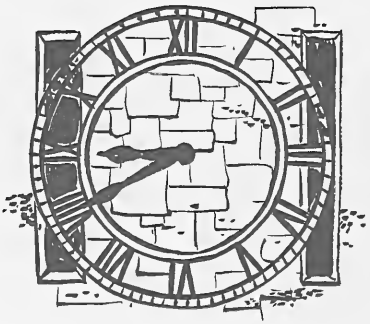


R. ALBERT DUHAMEL
Professor of English

History

"It is the first law of history that it dare say nothing which is false, nor fear to utter anything that is true in order that there may be no suspicion either of partiality or of hostility in the writer."

Pope Leo XIII

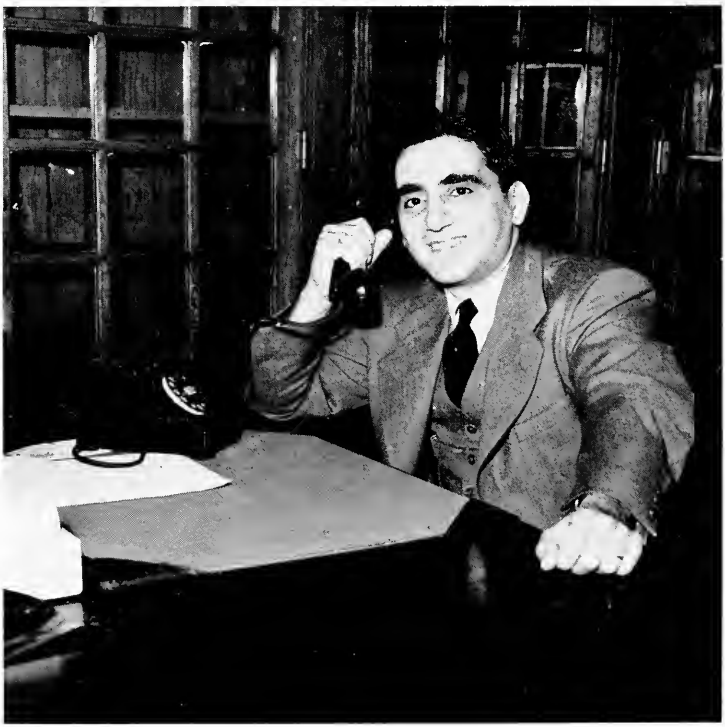


Rev. James L. Burke, S.J.
Chairman of History Department

Languages

"Language! the blood of our soul Sir! with which our thoughts run, out of which they grow . . . Every language is a temple in which the soul of those who speak it is enshrined."

O. W. Holmes



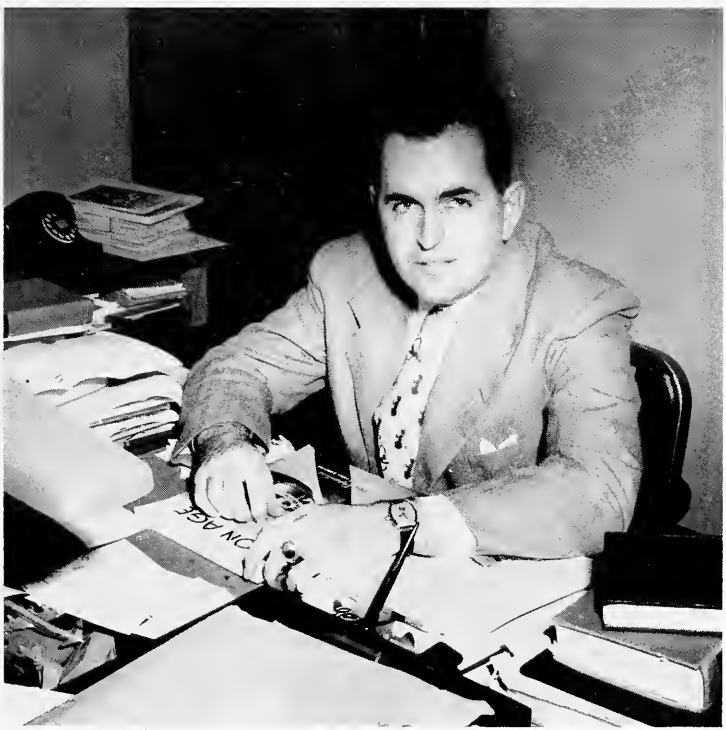
Ernest A. Siciliano

Professor of Romance Languages

Management

"The art of management has been defined as knowing exactly what you want men to do and then seeing that they do it in the best and cheapest way. The principal object of management should be to secure the maximum prosperity for the employer coupled with the maximum prosperity for each employee. Scientific management has for its very foundation the firm conviction that the true interests of the two are one and the same; that prosperity for the employer cannot exist through a long term of years unless it is accompanied by prosperity for the employee and vice versa, and that it is possible to give the worker what he most wants, high wages, and the employer what he wants, a low labor cost for his manufacturers."

DR. FREDRICK W. TAYLOR



JOHN J. BRENNAN
Assistant Professor of Management

Marketing

"Society, as we understand it, is an organization of individuals who possess definite basic needs; they also have the capacity for deriving less essential products and services which improve their standard of living. The function of marketing is to determine these needs and desires and to convey information as to the availability of these want-satisfying items. Having made known the supply of these goods and services, marketing then proceeds to establish those channels through which they may be readily obtained."

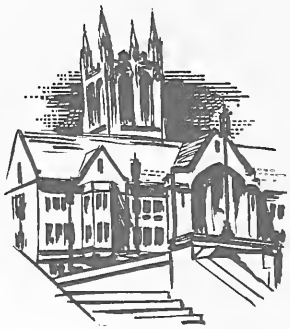
HENRY P. MCDONALD

FREDERICK T. BRYAN
Chairman of Marketing Department

Mathematics

"Mathematics is queen of the sciences and arithmetic the queen of mathematics. She often condescends to render service to astronomy and other natural sciences, but under all circumstances, the first place is her due."

K. F. Gauss



Rev. Anthony J. Eiardi, S.J.
Chairman of Mathematics Department

Physics

"A Physicist is one whose training and experience lie in the study and applications of the interactions between matter and energy in the fields of mechanics, acoustics, optics, heat, electricity, magnetism, radiation, atomic structure and nuclear phenomena."

FREDERICK E. WHITE
Professor of Physics

Psychology

"Traditionally Psychology is as old as man himself and man studied man earlier than he did matter."

T. V. Moore

Rev. James J. Moynihan, S.J.
Chairman of Psychology Department

IN MEMORIAM

But the just man, if he be prevented with death, shall be in rest.

For venerable old age is not that of long time, nor counted by the number of years; but the understanding of a man is grey hairs.

And a spotless life is old age.

He pleased God and was beloved, and living among sinners he was translated.

He was taken away lest wickedness should alter his understanding, or deceit beguile his soul.

For the bewitching of vanity obscureth good things, and the wandering of concupiscence overturneth the innocent mind.

Being made perfect in a short space he fulfilled a long time:

For his soul pleased God: therefore he hastened to bring him out of the midst of iniquities: but the people see this, and understand not nor lay up such things in their hearts:

That the grace of God and his mercy is with his saints, and that he hath respect to his chosen.

But the just that is dead, condemneth the wicked that are living, and youth soon ended, the long life of the unjust.

Book of Wisdom IV:7—16

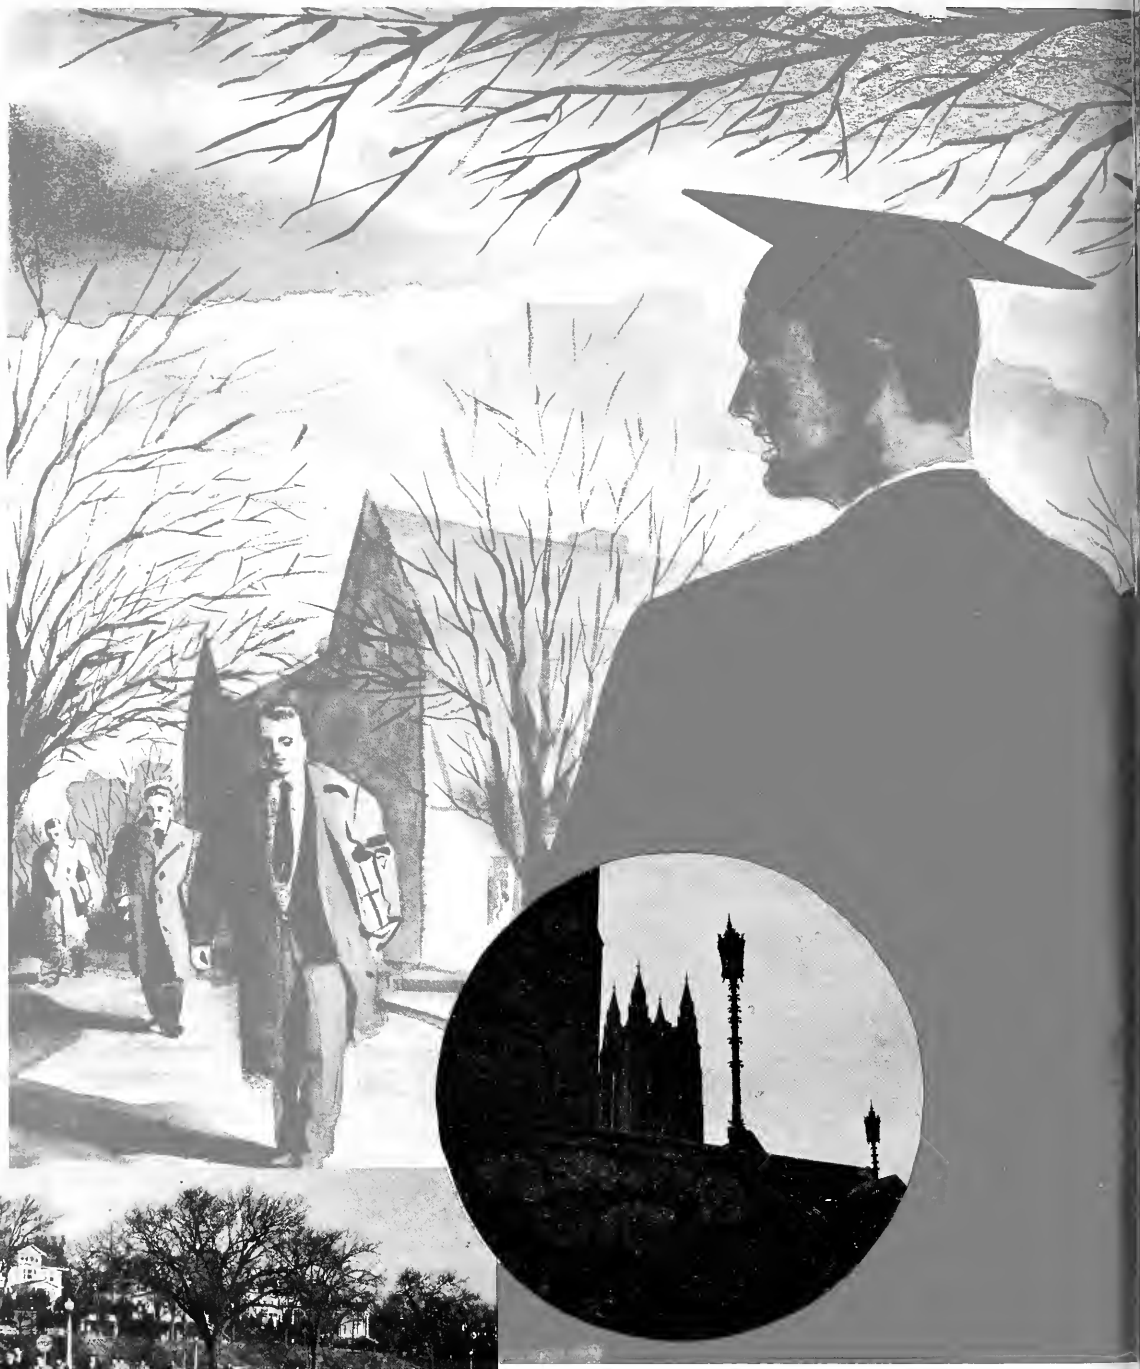
Finale



Hail! Alma Mater!

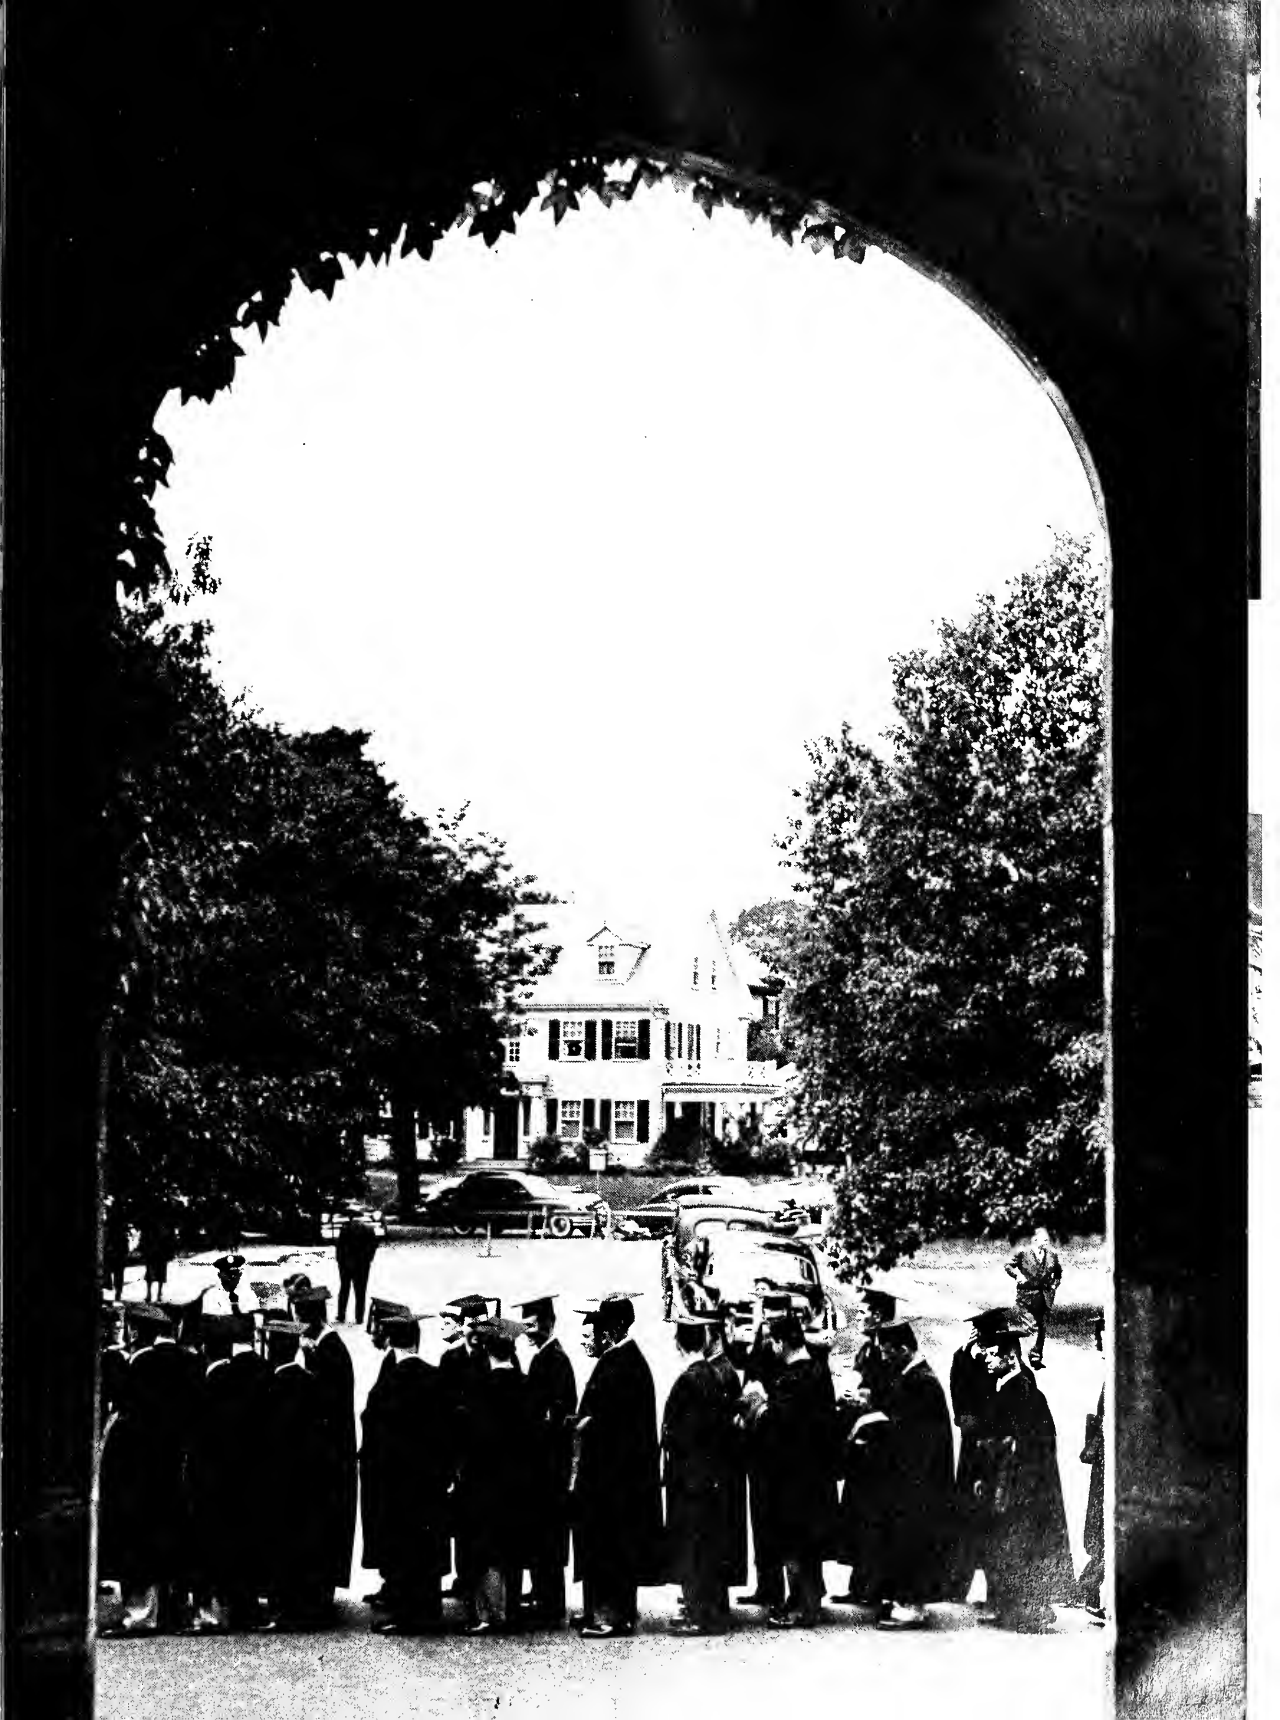
Hail! All Hail!

WE HAVE wandered once again ALMA MATER through your domain, stopping in memory on the stairs and in the corridors of your palace; singing your praises in the memories of a hundred different contests; relaxing in your cafeteria or lounge and beholding the images of plays, proms and shows; viewing your faculty and your sons while looking to the future.

We have, thru this book, dwelt once again at the Heights.

But now we must leave as we come to the June of '52. The green grass of your palace floor gives way under the weight of a thousand pacing feet. Valedictory is here again. Down Linden Lane we walk, ready, eager, resolute, the possessors of an ancient culture, partakers in a glorious tradition; men with the memories of a thousand joyful days, men with the vision of a thousand more to come.

HAIL ALMA MATER—HAIL AND FAREWELL



CLASS HISTORY

Future generations may well look back at the years we spent in college with admiration and with pity. They will study us as specimens of youth sandwiched between wars, pawns of the times, victims of an age that yearned for peace, prepared for disaster.

It is an interesting paradox: that we should consume four years learning all the norms, being trained how to be normal, then to be catapulted into a world that is distinguished above all other things for its abnormality. We are taught how to be men: in a day of atom blasts, bombs away, broken bodies and charred flesh, we are despatched to go about our business in a society of moral and intellectual freaks.

These are not just words: they are real fears. Beneath the Gothic shadow and academic reserve of eight semesters at Chestnut Hill, we have been constantly anxious about the draft, the international situation, the battles and decisions of diplomats. These were not things we saw on front pages and left there, un-thought of. They were live impressions we carried with us to class; the communications we were to receive from our local boards had as much immediacy to them, and more, than any transcript of marks from the central office, or notification of misdemeanor from the Dean of Men.

The large number of us told ourselves we did not like to study, that this or that teacher did not please us, that the emphasis in this particular course was a waste of time. Yet when confronted with the alternative of military life, we clung firmly to our academic restriction, we took tests and filled out forms, we breathed long breaths of satisfaction and relief when we were informed that yes, the United States Government would allow us to stay in school another year.

The whole business presented a problem that brought itself to bear, with increased urgency, not only on ourselves, but on those of our elders who were in any way concerned with the idea of personal freedom. What was this problem? As discussed frequently in ye well-knowne bull session, it considered whether or not the Government was assuming too great a say in the lives of students, of citizens, of people. We were the first to admit that the State had every right to conscript us, the emergency looming as large as it did, but we were not as willing to have projects like UMT forced on us, we did not welcome the prospect of spending the finest years of our lives in khaki. Our mothers and fathers were not enthusiastic about increased taxation, they grew more particular as to the heavy revenue expended for military and foreign purposes.

These were considerations that permeated not only the economics and government courses. In a presidential year, our graduating year, they were as much a part of the general campus life as the Bapst Library, the morning bulletin board, the lack of coordination between the Gasson Tower Timepiece and the classroom clocks.

National magazines engaged in all sorts of surveys and studies and when our age bracket became the object of their attentions, they stressed that uppermost in the minds of collegians today was the yearning for security. By and large they said we were assimilating what we learned in class into our general equipment for getting a good job, earning money and making ourselves comfortable. The state of the world distressed us most, but principally because we wanted the least to do with it. That was another reason why the draft irked us so: we wanted to be left alone to work out our happiness at home without much effort.

Yet at Boston College we were told that the real purpose of education was not as egocentric as all that. We were told the degree our Rector was to hand us in June represented something more than a ticket of admission to the House of Mammon, a visa for swift passage to the promised land of gadgets, shiny cars and sleek seven-room ranch houses. Instead, we were drenched in Theology and Philosophy and the meaning of life. Day after day we heard why we were alive, where we were going and how to get there. The catalogue of truth was thrown open to us, sometimes at us, and we came to feel proud that we had read it, while so many others had not.

Books were written by articulate graduates of Ivy League colleges complaining that God had been abandoned (or at least ignored) in American universities and that the sacrosanct principles of economic liberty and free enterprise were being sold down the river. Truth was being replaced by discussion and "academic freedom" had become more precious than the very principles from which the nation and its ivied halls of learning stemmed. These sound minor problems at Boston College, where we were so accustomed to dealing in absolutes; still we were not any less harassed by the futilities of the age our liberal associates were attempting to explain (or explain away). Despite the rightness of our course, it took the wisest of us to realize we may ourselves have been infected with complacency. That is what we had to guard against. We thought ourselves "good"—perhaps "passive" would have applied as often.

There were not too many veterans in our class—at least not nearly as many as in the two graduating bodies which preceded us. This was partly because most of the ex-G.I.'s who were to take advantage of a free education had done so soon after the war and with times swinging back to "normal" (we still use that word advisedly) the age level of students entering college in September of 1948, as we did, dropped appreciably. There was still a sharp flavor of war duty, but the just-from-high-school element had begun to predominate again for the first time since the end of World War II. A good example of the lack of previous service experience was the enrollment of 441 Freshmen in the campus R.O.T.C. unit the first week we were in school.

What were the events that interested us most during our first semester at University Heights? Naturally enough, we were concerned with the football team, which defeated Wake Forest, 26-7, in the opener before a full house, and went on through victories over Georgetown, Villanova and St. Mary's, losses to Mississippi and Clemson and a tie with St. Bonaventure to engage Holy Cross on November 25th ('48) and win 21-20, for the first victory over the Crusaders since 1941.

This was the year of the mammoth C.Y.O. Parade in downtown Boston, in which we played a large part; the year we were feted by the faculty and upperclassmen at a banquet in the Copley (now Sheraton) Plaza; the year of Mike Holovak's appointment as Freshman football coach and of the selection of Father Paul McNulty S.J. as our class moderator; the year of George Burke's election as Freshman president, of Art Spinney's as '49 football captain, of Henry Tyszkowski's as prexy for the coming sophomore term in a May plebiscite.

This was the year of Josef Cardinal Mindszenty's crucifixion—B.C. attracted national interest as photographs of 4000 undergraduates reciting the rosary for his cause on the Library lawn were printed throughout the country.

We had some good athletes in our class. The yearling football squad under Red Mangene (Holovak was appointed after the season finished) acquitted itself admirably. The freshman basketball team, paced by the likes of Timmy O'Connell, Tom O'Toole and Southie's Fran Duggan went on a 14 game winning spree.

There were Valentine dances and there were proms, and when we held ours at the Copley Plaza on February 25th, over 1000 showed up.

Snooks Kelley's hockey sextet's win over Yale, 3-1, in December was only the first in a series of events that were to lead straight to the Colorado Rockies and the N.C.A.A. championship. Important victories over B.U., Harvard and Dartmouth all played their part. In addition to that, the Eagles retained the Sands trophy by edging B.U., 6-5 on March 11, and ended up New England and Eastern Champs.

Do you remember how in April of the second Freshman semester the "Pyramid Club" tidal wave hit town? Most of us were crazy enough to join up and kick in investments ranging from one to fifteen smackers . . . When we didn't collect from the house party system, some of the sharper operators amongst us moved in for the campus kill. There were dime pyramids, quarter pyramids . . . and a handful of the student sharks did make a buck.

In May the Student Activities fee was removed, but simultaneously tuition was upped; the tariff for all practical purposes remained the same and with the close of finals that was the end of that year.

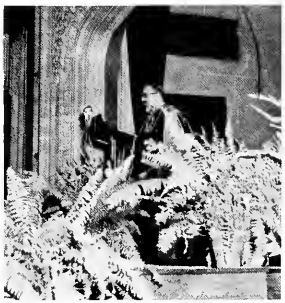
The sophomore term, they say, is the hardest of all the four. "Sophos" from the Greek means "wise"; "moros", fool: sophomores are wise fools, exposing themselves to further knowledge with assurance (perhaps too much), learning some of the answers and thinking they know them all. At any rate it was a good year and a happy one, with campus happenings overshadowed and colored as before with world activity, but full of incidents which though of small interest to the outsider, meant much to us.

One did not feel elated when Denny Myers' grid squad opened its year so inauspiciously against Oklahoma, on the inglorious end of a 46-0 score. When Penn State attempted the same and achieved a 32-14 decision over our Eagles one could hardly expect to feel much better. Things were looking up when the boys came from behind to tie Mississippi, 25-25, in a thriller, but then underdog Georgetown edged us 10-7.

We were the recipients of visits and visitations. Among them there was Sir Francis Meynell, son of poetess Alice Meynell, in October; the famed Jesuit apologist, Father Daniel Lord, in February, and the relic of St. Francis Xavier in November.



The first semester saw Bob Dineen and Charlie Cullen co-editors of the Heights, Tom Hanna editor of the Sub Turri, James A. McA'Nulty Knight Commander of the Cross and Crown and Student Council head. Then there were the Freshmen whipping the Holy Cross yearlings 32-14, the varsity (propelled by quarterback Ed Songin) romping over Clemson, 40-27, and Fordham, 20-12.

What comes after 75? 76! That's the spirit. And that was the figure by which B.C. submerged Dr. Bill Osmanski's Crusaders on an otherwise unbearably cold day in early December. 76 to nothing-much, the final. Fullback Eddie Petela (a comparatively new find) personally scored 34 points and the O'Melia trophy went to senior Al Canava. A few days later, Phil Coen succeeded Art Spinney as grid captain. In the fall, Fred Maguire resigned as baseball coach to accept a scouting position with the Red Sox; in January of 1950, Johnny Temple replaced him at the Heights.

Sophomore goalie discovery Pete Maggio of Everett sparkled in a 7-1 rout over Brown in the season starter. In January the sextet went to its 17th straight victory, smashing McGill 8-2. Then a nasty B.U. six snapped the skein after midyears, 8-1, at the Arena. After a hectic 4 goal finish in the last minutes of the final period, B.C. was just edged by Harvard, 9-8 in March. After beating B.U. for the N.E. title, les Eagles went on to the Rockies again, this time to lose to Colorado in the playoff.

Science went over with a bang in the Spring of '50 as some chemicals exploded in a biology lab in the basement of Devlin Hall . . . And so the year went. Tom Knowlton portrayed Macbeth in a February headliner, in April the Drama group presented "The Hasty Heart". The Alumni planned a new Hall on lower Commonwealth Avenue. The R.O.T.C. paraded and Father Keleher helped award commissions for 42 seniors.

So that brings us to Junior year. Enough to mention the football team and be done with it. We tied Wake Forest in the first game, 7-7 and lost every one after that. By what scores is not important, although most of them were pretty awful. Denny Meyers finally said goodbye, and in December of 1950, affable Mike Holovak became the head coach of football at Boston College. As the year wore on, Bill Flynn was to return as end coach, with Gil Bouley and Steve Stuka augmenting the new look as line and backfield coaches, respectively.

In the early Autumn, the daily campus rosary recitation was inaugurated . . . Raymond Trott was appointed Cross and Crown head. The Chief Justice of the Japanese Supreme Court was awarded an honorary degree in November. Later that month, Archbishop Cushing laid the cornerstone of the new Philosophy Building (later renamed Lyons Hall). Just before the Christmas holidays, the Student Council voted the Student Loan bill and enacted it when we came back in January.

There was hockey again. B.C. missed out on an N.C.A.A. bid, but only after some contests that can be called "classic"—if the use of that word is ever valid in athletics. There was, for instance, the B.U. game in January, when the Eagles stymied ace Terrier Jack Garrity and surged to win, 4-2. Or the 10-9 "game of the year" victory over Harvard, with its 5-goal B.C. barrage in the last period.

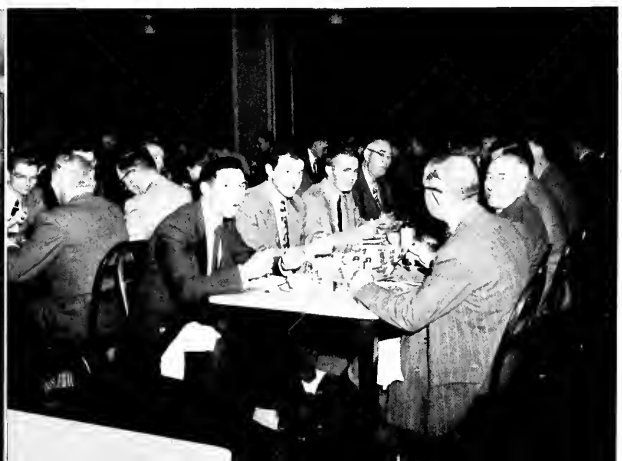
In January, Father Edward Finnegan, S.J., Sub Turri moderator and senior class advisor, died in Florida, where he had sought to recuperate from a long illness. This was a serious loss to all of us, because Father Finnegan was more than an advisor, he was a real friend.

In dramatics, Ron Weyand had the lead in the "Merchant of Venice" and Allan Keane was Father Malachy in "Father Malachy's Miracle."

We responded generously to the appeal for blood in March and in April we turned out in good numbers for the Junior Week Sports night, with T-V man Frank Fontaine supplying the gags at the Arena. During junior week, there was a Communion breakfast, a minstrel show and a special magazine to commemorate the event called "Junior Pic". It was a well-executed publication with George Burke, John Sullivan and Elmer Zirkel serving as editors.

Athletically, sophomore basketeer John Silk was picked "All New England" by Colliers, and Peter Maggio was elected hockey captain for the coming year . . . Frank Dooley of Dorchester was named Sub Turri Editor for 1952 . . . In May the Junior Prom at the Statler and a Sub Turri dance at the Totem Pole with Ray Anthony harmonizing winded things up socially.

And what of senior year? Of that we need no chronology here! The facts and memories of our two final semesters are recorded in every other page of this book. The Sub Turri is a monument to September, 1951, through June, 1952.



Senior Week begins with Holy Communion.

We wish to acknowledge with gratitude and sincere thanks:

The President and deans of Boston College for their enthusiastic cooperation.

The faculty and particularly the senior professors for their understanding.

Dr. Nathaniel J. Hasenfus for his literary assistance and advice.

Mr. John T. Moore for his advice on the organization and layout.

Mr. Joseph P. Murray of the treasurer's office for his invaluable help and cooperation.

Our advertisers, patrons, and solicitors for their generosity.

Mrs. Irene Barry, switch-board operator, for her patience and assistance.

Rev. John E. Murphy, S. J. and the staff of the Boston College Press for their support and cooperation

The Boston Globe, Boston Post, Boston Herald-Traveler, Boston Record-American, Associated Press, United Press, for providing pictures and information.

The officers and men of the many campus activities for literary contributions and for their wholehearted support.

The coaches, captains and managers of athletics, for their interest and cooperation.

Mr. Charles Harvey, Director of Publicity, for his time and consideration which he gave to the entire staff.

The following underclassmen who were most helpful in compiling every section of the book: Edward Stegeman, Michael Waldron, Neil O'Keefe, John Violette, Thomas O'Brien, Frank Sullivan, Harold Hanaway, Paul Murray.

Miss Joan Roy, and Miss Margaret Salmon, for their patient understanding and cooperation.

Mr. Douglas Dunn of Vantine Studios and Mr. William Sloane of B.J.H.&S., INC. for their patience and cooperation.

CONGRATULATIONS TO BOSTON COLLEGE

We are exceedingly gratified that we were accorded the privilege of erecting the new classroom building on the most picturesque college campus in America.

Of the many institutional structures we have built, none has given us greater inner satisfaction than Lyons Hall which we completed for a Boston College that is growing continually, both intellectually and physically.

We extend to the Very Reverend Joseph R. N. Maxwell, S. J., President, Arthur G. Melville, General Manager, and Maginnis and Walsh, Architects, our sincere appreciation for the splendid co-operation we have received which has helped to make this beautiful structure possible.

Both News and Food

Are FRESH

In 1844, Samuel Morse, ex-artist turned scientist, tapped a key in Washington and sent a coded message over a wire to Baltimore. A new era in communications was born: a new tool was created which enabled America's newspapers to move news more swiftly to more readers.

Fifteen years later, in a store on Vesey Street in New York, George Huntington Hartford inaugurated a new era in distribution.

His idea was to speed food from producer to consumer by the most efficient, direct route, thus by-passing all unnecessary steps and reducing in-between profits, handling costs and waste.

From that idea and that first store grew the A&P, which today serves millions of consumers in 39 states of the nation.

So, thanks to inventiveness and constant development, Americans get both their news and their food fresh these days . . .

And, like the news people of the nation, the men and women of A&P are proud of the part they play in bringing better living to millions of American families.

"COORDINATION" . . . a word that can mean a lot to you, even more than it does to us. It embodies a principle upon which our success depends. It means the proper economy of money, materials, and time, but always bearing in mind the kind of a yearbook you wish to have produced and of which you will be proud. BJH&S learned to appreciate that principle a long time ago. It is for this reason that we have consistently advocated the coordination of all factors of yearbook production. We are indeed glad to have been selected to produce this year's book.
